Adlai and
The Grass Roots

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 30—Here again, if added evidence is needed, there is illustration of the new dynamic in the Democratic Party.

Well before Harry S. Truman's convention skyrocketed flared and faded; long before President Eisenhower's unanimous vote in the Cow Palace, Adlai Stevenson and his associates knew that winning the nomination was but the first step.

Ahead of them then would be the ascent of a political Mt. Everest. It would be necessary to seize the initiative, to gain the public ear, to catch the eye.

And so, while President Eisenhower played 18 holes of golf daily, Adlai Stevenson began what he hopes will become the "greatest grass-roots campaign effort of all time" to take the great issues of the day directly to the people.

He and Sen. Kefauver arrived here this morning to cheers and warmth of welcome and immediately joined a mile-long motorcade tour through the heart of TVA. One of the issues is the Republican "give-away" of the nation's resources.

Here today are representatives from 10 Southern states. The list includes governors, congressmen, senators, state chairmen, and party leaders of all echelons. Only Arkansas is absent, and the "Wonder State" participated two days ago in a meeting at Santa Fe, N.M.

Desire Unity

The mood and desire are for unity.

There are wounds, but they are no longer raw.

They do not all love Sen. Estes Kefauver. But they look upon him with eyes less hot than on that caloric afternoon in the amphitheater when most of them voted for Sen. Kennedy of Massachusetts, in an effort to block the Tennesseean.

They still like Sen. Kennedy, but they have cooled off to the point where they know his stand on civil rights was even stronger than Sen. Kefauver's. And they know, too, that being from an industrial region he had voted against farm interests which would have hurt him in the agricultural South, Midwest and the irrigation-minded West. They admire him, and look forward to supporting him again.

But after a second look "Old Keef" doesn't seem to have horns and a tail as long as they appeared to some of the Southern delegations at Chicago. The light wasn't too good in the amphitheater, anyhow.

Not all, but many of them, have reached the conclusion that, all things considered, the ticket is about the best they could have gotten. The Southerners properly are proud of the manner in which they organized and worked at the convention.

So, the desire is for unity.

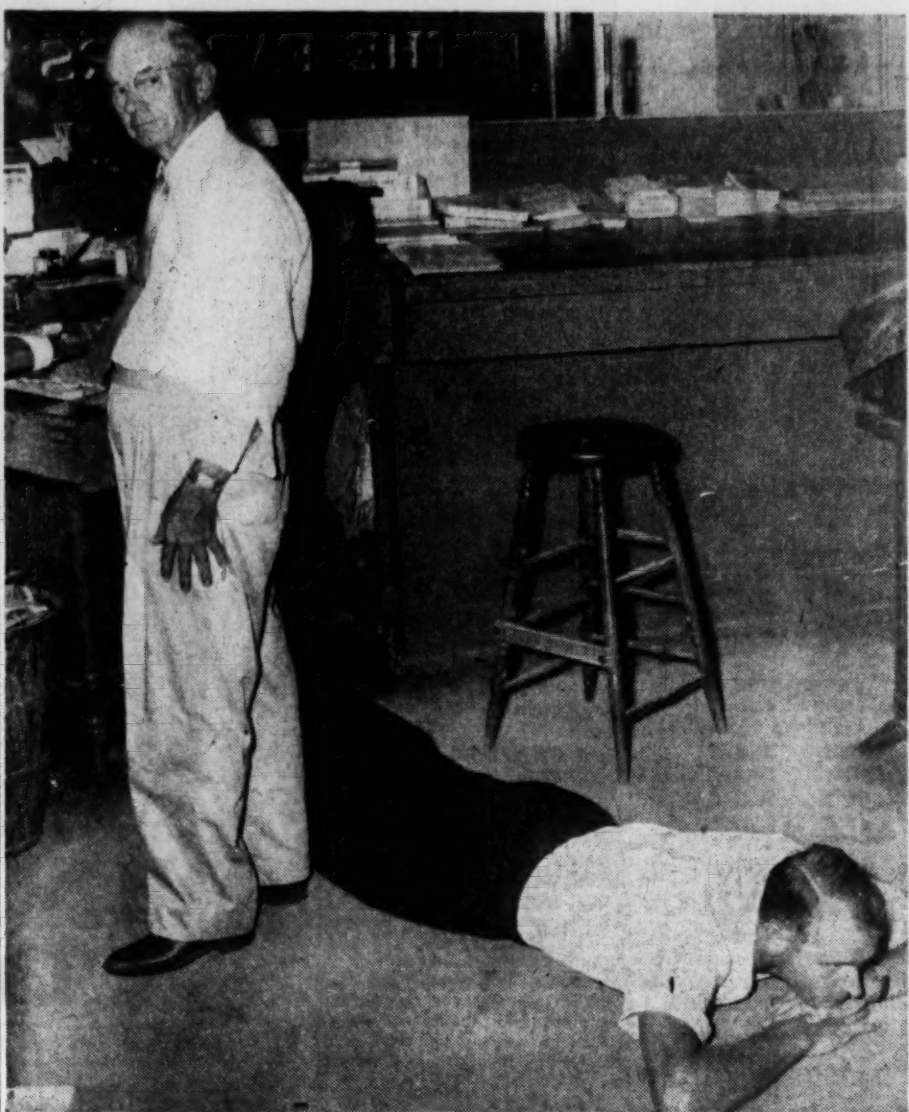

Marked Contrast

There are, to be sure, rumblings and fears here, but as of today the South looks much better than in 1952. Question marks hang over Virginia and Florida. But Florida's delegation here includes the top party leaders, or representatives of the same. They are enthusiastic for the ticket.

This is in marked contrast to the situation in 1952 when the Democratic nominees received little support.

On Saturday, last, Virginia's political director and apple grower, Sen. Harry Byrd, delivered a blast at Dwight D. Eisenhower and the Republican Party. He has not yet made a statement of support of the Democratic nominees. But four years ago he was one of the darlings of the GOP. It was largely due to his pro-Eisenhower sentiments the Old Dominion went into the Republican column. Now, in 1956, Sen. Byrd has come down out of his apple tree and is shooting at all Republicans in the orchard. Virginia congressmen and other leaders here believe the Byrd mood will continue. If so, Virginia will return to Stevenson and Kefauver.

Nothing, of course, is sure. But while none is entirely contented, the mood here is for unity—and for election of a Democratic White House and Congress.

CASHIER FORCED TO LIE ON FLOOR DURING HENRY BANK ROBBERY
H. C. Childs, Bank Vice President, Standing Left, J. A. Brown Re-enact Holdup

At Locust Grove Bank

LOCUST GROVE, Aug. 30—Two gunmen in Army-type fatigue clothes and riding in a faded blue Cadillac sedan Thursday robbed the Farmers Bank of Locust Grove of $4,000 and escaped after locking the bank vice president and a cashier in the vault.

State troopers, Henry County police and federal agents hastily threw road blocks about the area after the alarm was spread. However, officers said no trace of the 1952 model Cadillac or its occupants could be found after it roared out of the small town about 52 miles south of Atlanta.

The robbery occurred at 2 p.m. just as H. C. Childs, the bank vice president, and cashier Julian A. Brown were preparing to close for the day.

ONE UNMASKED

Childs and Brown said two men between the ages of 40 and 50 and clad in Army-type fatigue clothes walked in, and one pulled a gun, believed to be a .32 caliber automatic. One man wore a huge artificial nose with a flesh-colored Halloween mask over his face. His companion wore no mask, Henry County Det. Hiram Cook said.

Cook said he was told one man held a gun on Childs and Brown while the second ordered them to fill up a sack with bills from the till and vault. Childs and Brown said the two took approximately $4,100 in bills ranging from $1 to $20 and ignored the silver.

At one stage in the holdup, Brown was made to lie face down on the floor.

"They told us what they wanted done and they looked like they meant business," Childs was quoted. "They didn't waste time in threats or abusing us."

LOCKED IN VAULT

Girl Here;
Utilities Hit

A violent thunderstorm cracked through Atlanta Thursday, crippling power lines in Tucker and knocking out phone service in the northeast section of the city.

A 15-year-old girl, Judy Lyn Fox of 557 Chateau Drive, NW, was treated for shock at Georgia Baptist Hospital after she had been struck by lightning during the storm. She was released from the hospital when an examination showed that she had not been burned.

Two Georgia Power Co. circuits burned out during the storm, leaving 500 homes in Tucker and 700 homes in the Paces Ferry road, NE, area without power.

The brunt of the storm struck at 2 p.m. A utility pole at East Paces Ferry road and Shadow-lawn road, NE, was knocked down after a tree had been blown across its lines. The tree crashed into a truck.

Approximately 1,000 phones, serviced by cables on the pole, were put out of service.

The Weather Bureau forecast a continued chance of thundershowers for the Atlanta area and north Georgia Friday, along with considerable cloudiness and warm temperatures.

Friday's and Saturday's temperature extremes are expected to be 70 and 90. Thursday's extremes in Atlanta were 70 and 89.

Texans Vow Guns To Bar Negroes;
Tennessee School Flares Up Anew

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

An angry crowd threatened to use guns if necessary to maintain segregation at the Mansfield, Tex., High School Thursday while violence flared for the second day at the newly integrated Clinton High School in east Tennessee.

Sheriff Harlan Wright said about 250 persons milled about Mansfield High after the effigy of a Negro was found hanging from the school's flagpole.

The sheriff and four deputies went to the school to preserve order while town children registered for the fall term. No Negroes appeared but 12 from rural areas are scheduled to register Friday.

Wright said one member of the crowd demanded, "We want a yes or no answer. Are you gonna escort them in there with guns?"

The sheriff replied, "You can't take the law into your own hands."

"If you escort them in with guns, we are gonna have to get guns ourselves," one man told Wright. The sheriff said he would charge anyone found with a gun.

"You'd better clean out the jail, then. You're gonna have a lot of us down there," someone in the crowd shouted.

No incidents developed and by mid-afternoon only about 50 persons remained outside the school. In Dallas, federal Dist. Judge Joe E. Estes confirmed his order for immediate integration of Mansfield High. An appeal is being sought, however.

At Clinton, Tenn., three white men were taken into custody during a brief melee in front of the school. Classes started Monday with 12 Negroes among the 800 pupils enrolled.

Apples and tomatoes were hurled at a passing Negro woman during the disturbance. The crowd of about 100 moved on to the nearby jail when the three were taken there. A jail window was broken before authorities restored order.

Some two hours after the disturbance a motorcade carrying Klan members, in Knoxville, John Kasper, Washington, D.C., segregationist accused of stirring up much of the trouble at Clinton, was arrested on a writ of attachment issued by federal Dist. Judge Robert L. Taylor. Kasper was jailed in default of $10,000 bail.

The judge issued the writ pending a hearing tomorrow on a contempt citation against Kasper for conducting an anti-integration rally, attended by some 800 persons last night before the courthouse at Clinton. Kasper, executive secretary of the Seaboard White Citizens' Council, spoke against enforcement of the integration order.

Dixie Vows Solid Front
For Adlai as Griffin Asks
Vote To Match Georgia'sStevenson's
'52 Majority
In State Cited

By a Staff Writer

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 30—Georgia's Gov. Griffin in effect challenged other Southern states Thursday to do as well as Georgia in supporting the Democratic presidential ticket this year.

As Georgia's spokesman in a caucus of Southern state delegations here with Adlai Stevenson and Estes Kefauver, Griffin said:

"If any Southern state beats Georgia in supporting the Democratic ticket, it will have a long way to go."

LARGEST MAJORITY

Griffin reminded Stevenson and the other Southerners that Georgia is the only state that has never deserted the Democratic party and in 1952 gave Adlai the largest majority of any state.

"Georgia," he predicted, "will vote Democratic by an even greater majority in 1956."

"We are glad to come here to signify the unity and the strength of the Democratic Party in Georgia," Griffin said.

Rep. Jack Flynt of Griffin reiterated Griffin's views and pledge at the conference.

CONVENTION CONTRAST

These statements were somewhat in contrast with Georgia's position at the Democratic convention when the state delegation at Chicago fought the party platform, withheld their nomination votes from Stevenson and sought to defeat Estes Kefauver for the vice presidential nomination.

The Georgia pledges at Knoxville, however, were strengthened

Escape Artist
Harvey Foiled
In Dash Here

By KEELER McCARTNEY

Escape artist Leland Harvey, 49, and a companion fled from a Cobb County public works detail Thursday but were arrested a short time later after wrecking the county truck in Atlanta, police said.

The second man was identified as Arthur Ray, 44, who was serving 12 months on charges of possessing non-tax paid whisky. Both were placed in the Atlanta jail to await return to the Cobb County prison.

GAVE FALSE NAME

Harvey, who was returned to prison earlier this year as a parole violator, gave his name as "Jim Ramsey" and vigorously denied that he was Harvey. However, Police Chief Herbert Jenkins said Harvey was identified through fingerprints.

Placed in the regular daily lineup at the detective roll call, Harvey stepped forward at a command from Capt. J. L. Tuggle, and in clear tones gave his name as "Jim Ramsey."

"Gentlemen," said Tuggle, "this is Leland Harvey."

"Gentlemen," shouted Harvey, "that's a lie."

SHOUTS DENIALS

Late Treasury Deposit
Held in Cravey's Bank

By JACK NELSON

More than $100,000 of the money that was belatedly transferred by Comptroller General Zack Cravey to the State Treasury was on deposit in a bank in which Cravey is a stockholder.

State Auditor B. E. Thrasher's audit of the comptroller general's office reported that revenue collections totaling $1,180,069.99 were deposited in various banks in February and March of 1956 and allowed to remain on deposit until June 26, 1956—four days before the end of the fiscal year.

"State revenue collections should be transferred at least monthly by this collecting agency to the State Treasury," according to the audit. Commenting on the audit, Thrasher said this is a matter of policy, not law.

The state deposits increase the lending power of the banks, Thrasher said.

The state audit showed that deposits of the comptroller general included one for $104,130.06 in the Bank of Upson in Thomaston. State Banking Department records show that Robert T. Cravey, son of the comptroller general, is vice president, cashier and director of the Bank of Upson.

The Constitution also learned that Zack Cravey is listed as a stockholder in the bank.

The deposit in the Upson bank was the largest in any bank out-

15 Lost as Airliner Crashes in Alaska

Canadian Line Reports 7 Survived in Fiery Plunge

KODIAK, Alaska, Aug. 30 (AP)—A Tokyo-bound Canadian airliner, afire on a night flight over the Pacific, missed an airfield and smashed onto an Alaskan tundra last night. Fifteen of the 22 persons aboard were killed or missing and some of the seven survivors were hurt badly.

Capt. Thornton A. Tweed, 52, who learned to fly at 11 and was the youngest pilot ever to solo in Canada, radioed the U.S. Naval station here about the fire on the Canadian Pacific Airline DC6B. He apparently tried to land at the Cold Bay airport, a plane refueling station on the trip of the Alaskan peninsula. But the plane crashed short of the runway on a second try, at 9:48 p.m. Kodiak time—2:48 a.m. Thursday EST. Many hours after the crash, 12 were known dead and three were missing. The Navy sent a doctor and medical supplies from Kodiak, and survivors were cared for temporarily at the tiny, isolated settlement. CPA sent a rescue plane today from Vancouver, B.C. Capt. Tweed, whose father died in a plane crash in 1939, survived along with three other Canadian crew members and three passengers. The passengers who got out alive included Sharon and Patricia Edelstein, ages 16 and 7, daughters of the CPA manager at Hong Kong, and York Sing Chan, a Chinese from Vancouver. Ten of the 14 passengers were Orientals, some bound for long-planned visits to their native land.

Dead or missing were four Canadian Catholic priests and a Japanese woman who has been attached to the Japanese Embassy office at the United Nations.

The priests, returning to the Foreign Mission Society in Tokyo, were Fathers James MacIntosh, St. Andrew, Nova Scotia, and Vincent McGough, Toronto. The Japanese Embassy employee was Miss Toshiko Yamane, 35, returning to Tokyo for reassignment.

CPA listed these crew members as dead or missing: first officer Philip D. Iverson, 37; navigator William R. Hunter, 32; and stewardesses Evelyn Lee, 26, and Anita Wong, 26, all of Vancouver. Names of others dead or missing had not been announced hours after the crash.

Wagner, under heavy pressure from Adlai Stevenson and other Democratic leaders to make the race, appeared assured of his party's nomination.

WITH RELUCTANCE

The mayor, overcoming previous reluctance to run this year, told a news conference in City Hall: "If the Democratic convention at Albany—Sept. 10—seems fit to select me, I will accept."

The mayor's four-year term has a year to go. He will not have to give up his city post to campaign for the Senate.

Whom the Republicans will nominate to oppose him still was an open question. The GOP State Committee will decide at a meeting in Albany the same day as the Democrats.

ANNOUNCED CANDIDATES

State Atty. Gen. Jacob K. Javits and J. Raymond McGovern, former state controller, are the major announced candidates for the Republican senatorial nomination.

Among those mentioned as possibilities have been former Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, now engaged in private law practice; U.S. Atty. Gen. Herbert Brownell Jr., and National GOP Chairman Leonard W. Hall, but none has shown any interest.

Stevenson, the Democratic presidential nominee; Lehman, Gov. Averell Harriman and other leaders have urged Wagner to make the race in the belief he is the party's best potential vote-getter in the state.

Hodge Aides Switch Plea To Guilty

CHICAGO, Aug. 30 (UP)—Ex-State Auditor Orville E. Hodge's two key aides in his one million dollar embezzlement switched their pleas to guilty today. One of them received a one to three year prison sentence.

Edward A. Hintz, Hodge's accommodating banking friend, pleaded guilty in Springfield Circuit Court to charges of conspiring to defraud the state of $637,000. Judge L. E. Wilhite imposed the prison sentence and added a $3,000 fine.

A few hours later Hodge's ex-office manager, Edward A. Epping, made a surprise appearance at federal court in Chicago and pleaded guilty to charges of misapplying about $400,000 of federally insured bank funds.

Judge Joseph Sam Perry deferred Epping's sentencing until tomorrow, when Hintz also is scheduled to appear in federal court and start a three year federal prison term on similar charges.

Hodge, the bigtime Republican politician who engineered the massive embezzlement of state funds, is already behind bars. He was sentenced last week to 12 to 15 years in state prison and is currently suffering from ulcers in the Menard Penitentiary dispensary.

Epping has maintained he was nothing but "a glorified messenger boy" in the Hodge embezzlement. And Hintz has said he was "stupid but honest" when, as president of the Southmoor Bank and Trust Co. here, he allowed the cashing of phony state checks.

Both men had previously pleaded innocent to all charges against them and Epping still has an innocent plea entered against state conspiracy charges against him.

Alabama Voters Widen Margin for Segregation

BIRMINGHAM, Aug. 30 (AP)—Two measures designed to maintain segregation in Alabama increased their already wide margin, as late tabulations filtered in today.

One proposal, providing for "freedom of choice" for parents who wish to send their children to segregated schools, was passed with the biggest majority for any of the six amendments.

Of 2,414 boxes counted—there are more than 2,700 in the state—117,638 voters favored the proposal, while 74,833 opposed it. The other segregation amendments were strictly local in application. Of 2,414 boxes, Amendment No. 4, Auburn and Opelika ad valorem taxes, was defeated 68,293 to 61,606.

Amendment No. 5, Marion County, was defeated 89,593 to 38,036. Amendment No. 5, Franklin County, was defeated 75,039 to 50,244.

Red Athlete-Hatliifter Hides Out in Embassy

LONDON, Aug. 30 (AP)—The shoplifting case involving one of Russia's top women athletes reached the diplomatic level today when the suspect dodged a court appearance and took refuge in the Soviet embassy.

Nina Ponomareva, 210-pound discus throwing champion, was ordered rearrested when she ignored a summons to appear in Marlborough Street Court. Police searched for her throughout the day.

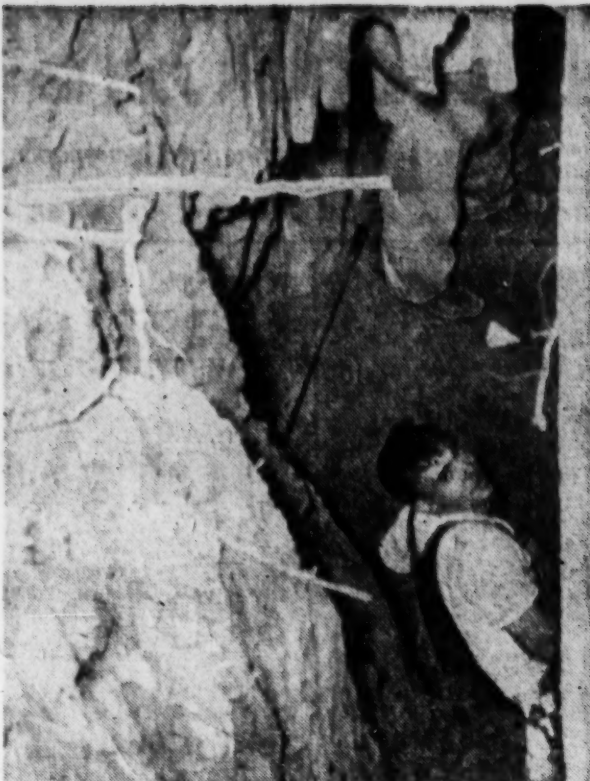

A London newspaper said it was informed by Russian officials that Nina was in the embassy.

Scotland Yard said its men could not enter the embassy because of diplomatic protocol. Embassy officials refused to comment, but the British Foreign Office said a representative of the Soviet embassy called to "raise the question" of Miss Ponomareva's arrest.

All the hullabaloo was caused by five 90-cent hats. Two store detectives said Miss Ponomareva tried to take them from a low-priced women's wear shop here yesterday without paying for them.

Miss Ponomareva, whose manly muscles belied her feminine fancy for hats, came here with Russia's Olympic track squad. The Russians are scheduled to compete against Britain's Olympic hopefuls this weekend.

The Russians went out to see London yesterday and Miss Ponomareva, 37-year-old mother, left

Loss of 'Ic' Vote Fails To Worry Democrats

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30 (AP)—The Democratic National Committee chided Republicans today for assigning a "grown man" to drop the "ic" from "Democratic."

There will be no attempt to retaliate in kind, the Democrats said, because the "Republican party is the brand name by which our opponents' product is known and mistrusted." They said they took a "secret nationwide public opinion poll" and proved it.

The Democratic committee released to the press an "urgent and confidential" memo it said it had sent to party leaders. It was in reply to a statement yesterday by L. Richard Goulay, publicity director of the Republican National Committee. He said Republicans have adopted an "official policy" of shortening the opposition's name to "Democrat party."

The Democratic committee expressed some surprise that "a grown man named L. Richard Goulay has been assigned the task of seeing that the 'ic' is dropped from all Republican speeches and statements."

The Democrats said they were not caught unawares—"From the Republican convention our secret agent had wired an urgent coded warning that this plot was afoot."

In an effort to support its contention that the GOP move is a fizzle, the Democratic committee released the results of its "poll." It said it asked: "What do you think of the Republican strategy of calling the Democratic party the Democrat party?"

The results: What did he say? 52 per cent Couldn't care less 42 per cent Huh? 5 per cent Undecided 1 per cent

Another question, said the Democratic committee, was: "What appeal for the political party of the Eisenhower administration do you find to be the most descriptive and least attractive?"

The results: Republican party 87 per cent Publican party 0 per cent Old guard 10 per cent Undecided 3 per cent

French Put First Troops On Cyprus

LONDON, Aug. 30 (UP)—The first French troops assigned to the joint expeditionary force from Britain and France arrived today on Cyprus within striking distance of the Suez Canal.

Britain and France began forging a powerful military force as prospects for a peaceful settlement of the controversy over the vital waterway appeared to be diminishing.

Dispatches from Cairo indicated Egypt meant to hold firm to its contention that the Suez Canal is and must remain Egyptian.

PROTEST TO DULLES

In Washington, Egyptian Ambassador Ahmed Hussein delivered an oral protest to Secretary of State John Foster Dulles concerning his statement that the Suez Canal was internationalized by the treaty of 1888.

The British Foreign Office announced today that the council of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization will meet Wednesday, probably in Paris, to consider the crisis touched off by Egypt's seizure of the canal.

The announcement said Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd will attend the meeting. State Department officials in Washington said they doubted Dulles would attend.

DRAW ON NATO

The announcement touched off speculation that Britain might be reading a request to withdraw some of its NATO forces from Germany, as France has done to meet the revolt in Algeria.

The crisis was intensified by Egypt's arrest of three British diplomats and the expulsion of two British diplomats on spy charges.

Britain struck back on the diplomatic front today by declaring two members of the Egyptian embassy in London "persona non grata," and giving them 72 hours to leave.

Reports from Cyprus said that the first elements of a large contingent of French troops reached that eastern Mediterranean bastion, only 360 miles north of the Suez Canal.

The Times of Cyprus reported in Nicosia that 1,000 French troops landed near Limassol. British authorities only reported the arrival of a 15-man advance party.

Pakistan Getting Canadian Wheat

OTTAWA, Aug. 30 (AP)—Canada is making a gift of 25,000 tons of wheat—925,000 bushels—to relieve a food shortage in Pakistan. Foreign Secretary Lester B. Pearson said today. The contribution is worth about $1,250,000, he told a news conference.

Knoxville Meeting Helps Clear the Air

At Knoxville yesterday, Gov. Adlai Stevenson, meeting with representatives of 10 Southern states, explained his basic plan in making so early a "grass roots" journey about the nation.

He wants to make a firsthand check on the main issues. He wishes, also, to confer with local leaders and local candidates in his fight to bring these issues home to the American people and thereby get out the largest Democratic vote in history.

Knoxville, and the previous meetings on the Pacific Coast, at Santa Fe and Sioux City, Iowa, are not a part of the campaign per se. It is not a tour for speeches and public appearance but for party contacts and strategy talks.

In a sense, it is a journey which grew out of Stevenson's experiences in the primary campaign. He learned that talking and shaking hands with local and state leaders are just as important as major strategy moves in the speaking campaign.

So, in the great regions of America, Stevenson and his running mate are meeting with citizens and party leaders to discover from them what they regard as the chief issues. Once the journey is done, (and there are other stops ahead), a policy will be evolved which will, insofar as is possible, try to begin from a basic viewpoint. That it will not please all is, of course, inevitable. But insofar as it is humanly possible, a national policy will be evolved for the one national party—the Democratic.

All Southern states were represented here today except Arkansas which met earlier with the party members from the Southwestern states at Santa Fe.

Not all, of course, are happy. Sen. Kefauver is still not the beau ideal of the politicians. But they now see he suits them better than they at first believed. They see that if they don't have Sen. Kefauver they will have Dick Nixon for four years—and then perhaps as president. So there is a sort of acceptance of the fact that in this most imperfect of worlds, one takes the bitter with the sweet and makes the best of things.

The cost of living keeps going up, despite the Republican orators at San Francisco who said it was going down. American prestige and power abroad is lower than at any time in recent history.

The TVA tour here was designed to provide ammunition about the fact the Republicans have been giving away public resources for private exploitation and that TVA is one of their targets.

It is admitted that the Republicans will outspend the Democrats by at least $10 to $1 for television time. So the only Democratic answer is to go out and see the people.

All this was the background of the Knoxville meeting.

Bar Association Asks Non-Partisan Judges

At its annual meeting in Dallas, the American Bar Assn. went on record as favoring a completely nonpartisan group of federal judges.

It urged the President of the United States to nominate to judgeships only those distinguished by professional qualifications and without regard to their political affiliations.

This will come as a shock to some who thought that was the way judges had been appointed all along. But here, as elsewhere, reality falls short of the ideal, as witness the political appointees on the U.S. Supreme Court.

For the most part the federal courts are presided over by men of enough scholarly attainment and personal dignity to inspire and keep the respect of the general public and the attorneys who plead before the federal bench.

The courts must be respected, in fact, held in awe, if our system of government is to remain in good health. For that reason we wish the American Bar Assn. had broadened its resolution and addressed it to state governors as well as the president.

State appointments too often are on a personal loyalty and pay off basis, though frequently these unqualified appointees grow up to the size of their jobs as the years wear on.

Living Costs Go Up As Dollar Goes Down

Living costs hit another record last month and are still rising. Compared with what the dollar would buy in 1939, today it is worth 51 cents.

Since 1950, reports the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics, food costs are up 11.3 per cent; clothing, 9.2 per cent; housing, up 15.7 per cent; transportation, up 14.8 per cent; medical care, up 25.7 per cent; personal care, 20.7 per cent and other costs are up 17.4 per cent.

It is immediately evident that the Eisenhower administration has not halted inflation nor appreciably held it down. Efforts in that direction today are being resisted bitterly. Higher interest rates to restrict credit are in effect but these, too, tend to increase living costs. Today the discount rate is at its highest level since 1933.

Credit brakes have resulted in a slow-down in the housing boom but in most lines there is still an optimistic mood. Personal incomes continue to rise. While there are danger spots in the economy, expansion continues and the demand for goods and services exceeds the money supply.

While the argument about interest rates will be dragged into the political campaign—as well as the rising cost of living—the real question involves the continued decline of the dollar in relation to purchasing power. More income with less buying power is self-deception of the most malignant sort.

Inflation has not been licked. The big problem is to bring some sort of stability without throwing the whole economy into a tailspin.

Mr. Thrasher Examines Each Office Every Year

The affairs of the State of Georgia would be even more mysterious if it were not for the statistical eye and devotion to duty of State Auditor B. E. Thrasher Jr.

Each year in his audits of various departments, Mr. Thrasher points out, as he is bound to by law, such irregularities as turn up. These audits also show many transactions which are quite legal but debatable from the point of view of economy and good business.

For instance, the audit of the State Law Department showed the payment of $5,000 to Charles J. Bloch of Macon and member of the Board of Regents for a segregation test case that was filed but never tried. Atty. Gen. Eugene Cook said the suit was suggested by Mr. Bloch, who is the law partner of Denmark Groover, former floor leader of the House and now Democratic national committeeman.

No law broken here. It just shows the way things are done in Georgia politics.

There also is the case of the collections of the office of Comptroller General Zack D. Cravey. Mr. Thrasher criticized this office's practice of letting its income lie in banks for longer than the standard time of one month before transfer to the State Treasury. During this period the banks have the use of this money and the state hasn't.

Obviously there are more ways of nominating favorite sons than on the floor of a political convention. Favorite banks, too.

In doing his duty, Mr. Thrasher annually brings light into darkness. All taxpayers are grateful to him. His office is as much a part of our system of checks and balances as are the executive and judicial branches, and was the legislative branch before it surrendered its power over the budget to the governor.

'Radicals' of Yesterday Are 'Moderates' Today

Political commentators are pointing out that the 1956 GOP platform, and especially President Eisenhower's acceptance speech, would have been berated loudly from every Republican stump in the land a scant 10 years ago.

In other words, the GOP today has accepted most of the New Deal-Fair Deal accomplishments and objectives as their own and point with pride to "socialistic" programs that it formerly denounced.

We find the Republicans of 1956 claiming credit and assuming responsibility for continuing the nation's prosperity. The platform flatly accepts the dictum that "the government should ever be the farmer's helper." It pledges federal funds for education, help for small business, more social security and unemployment insurance and more help for veterans.

Good times as the responsibility of government and human welfare "from the cradle to the grave" is strange GOP doctrine. But coming from Republicans it has no revolutionary sound. It does indicate that the great political battlegrounds of a quarter century are no more.

Yesterday's radicalism has become the politics of today's "moderates." But few believe that the GOP without Eisenhower would not drift into its Old Guard ways.

At any rate, the adage that "politics makes strange bedfellows" still holds true but it's difficult to realize that the GOP is showing signs of entering the Twentieth Century.

Philadelphia Bulletin

Thomas Jefferson said that the accounts of the federal government ought to be as readily understood as the plain bookkeeping of a simple farmer.

This is hardly the case nowadays. What with "pipelines," "authorizations," "appropriations," "new money," "old money" and "holders," the old-fashioned citizen is completely lost.

And the Walls Came Tumblin' Down

Pulse of the Public

Nasser's Move, if Successful, Could Compel U.S. Consumer To Pay Dearly in Long Run

Vero Beach, Fla.—Has John Q. Public of Main Street got a stake in the Suez? The answer lies in the fact Nasser has said he will use the canal's income for his country's needs. And the needs of his impoverished land are monumental.

Much of this income is derived from shipments to the United States. Among them are manganese, tin, lead, oil, pepper, wool, burlap and rubber required by our basic industries.

This country is depending more and more on Eastern sources of supply and the Suez Canal shortcuts by 6,000 miles the distance the shipments would otherwise have to travel to reach our Atlantic ports.

Under pre-emption tolls a cargo vessel pays $7,600 on the round trip to the Far East, but saves 18 days or $46,000 in operating expenses.

Nasser is looking at a gold mine. He can jack the tolls (this is widely predicted) to a level where it will be just worth while to use his ditch.

The extra bite, which could run into the millions, will be strictly for the account of John Q. Public. The consumer always pays.

Eisenhower's Prowess In Wartime Is Cited

Hapeville—After watching and listening to the Democratic convention, a disturbing thought is casting a shadow before me.

I can't help thinking of what might happen to 40 or 50 millions of us if some of our potential enemies "let slip the dogs of war," and we found ourselves facing countless hordes of invading armies.

Would the nominees of the Democratic conventions—if elected—know the military steps to take in defense of our country and our lives?

Never in the life of our nation has a military genius been so necessary as commander-in-chief of our armed forces.

'Statesmanship' Needed To Keep 'Joe' in Fold?

Atlanta—As the self-appointed sole spokesman for the Republican administration in our 7:30 a.m. Strap-hangers Club, I found myself faced with a bitter attack recently over the "brutal" treatment of the mythical "Joe Smith" at the convention. So serious was this matter that drastic action seemed in order.

I promptly put in a call for the St. Francis Hotel on my mythical radio and received immediate assurance that "Joe" would be appointed vice consul to the smallest city in the mythical state of Mauritania if the party wins in the November election. I trust that this evidence of astute statesmanship will win many votes for the party.

Myths can really become a nuisance—what?

Signs on Expressway Misleading, He Says

Atlanta—Jack Nelson's article on the Talmadge Bridge confusion is interesting and I, for one, hope that it can be worked out.

After he has finished that, I think he could do the tourists a great favor in straightening out the confusion on the South Expressway where Route 41 is shown as leaving the expressway at Hapeville, Cleveland avenue, Lakewood avenue and University drive. To my way of thinking, this is worse than the Talmadge Bridge signs.

It's the Tack That Hurts Most

A worry poll has shown that 43 per cent of the fretful are upset about money, 30 per cent about personal problems and 24 per cent about health. Only 8 per cent are lying awake over world problems, war and the atomic bomb.

They say the soldier marching gives his battle attention to the tack in his shoe. Some other philosopher has prayed, "Lord, save us from the gnats. We can take care of the elephants ourselves."

Which reminds me of a helpful quote I picked up the other day, like this:

"Every once in a while, when your troubles pile up so high you can't climb over them, so wide you can't walk around them, so deep you can't dig under them, about the only thing you can do is to double up your fists, duck your head, hunch your shoulders and wade right through them."

There's more good advice in the example of the woman psychiatrist attending a convention. At one of the sessions, the man sitting next to her began to pinch her.

She was about to say something to him in anger, but she changed her mind and cooled off.

"Why should I get angry?" she said. "After all, it's his problem."

SOMETHING TO SHOW: The current prediction in Detroit is that in less than five years air conditioning in cars will be as common as auto radios—four in every five.

The time will come sooner if they'll devise a flag to stick up on the outside showing you've got it.

It Is the Striving That Counts in Life

One of the most troublesome verses in the New Testament is the words of Christ, "Be ye perfect, even as your Father which is in Heaven is perfect" (Matt. 5:48). At first Christ seems to be mocking our mere humanity. Of course we are human. "To err is human" is written into our very natures. How can we, mere men that we are, be perfect?

We excuse much of what we do that we know is wrong by saying, "We're only human, after all."

After a man's dog had ravaged a neighbor's flower garden, the owner apologized by saying, "After all, he's only human." That is too frequently our estimate of ourselves.

I imagine that many of those persons with whom Christ lived excused their inability to measure up to Christ's standards by saying, "After all, I'm only human." But Christ was not satisfied with human standards. He demanded that men measure their lives by God's standards.

Nevertheless, He did recognize a man's honest effort whenever He saw it. To the responsive scribe He said, "Thou art not far from the Kingdom of God" (Mark 22:34).

One Bible student, after a thorough reading of the Gospels, said that Jesus praised men three times more often than He condemned. He had strong and piercing words for those who wilfully sinned, but for others He had inspiring and encouraging words.

So often He judged not by what a man did as by what a man meant to do.

A small boy listened as his teacher recited "If" by Rudyard Kipling. You remember how the lines go: "If you can keep your head when all about you . . . Are losing theirs and blaming it on you . . . If you can trust yourself when all men doubt you . . . But make allowance for their doubting too . . ."

The small boy broke into the recitation by protesting, "But what if you can't?"

Christ demanded not so much the achievement of perfection as an earnest, honest effort toward Godly living. Of course we'll make mistakes, big ones sometimes; but let's be positive in our refusal to accept them.

When a little child excused herself by saying, "I didn't mean to," her father replied, "It isn't enough to say I didn't mean to; you must mean not to."

Our individual and social striving toward the high ideals of Christ will always be futile if we depend merely upon ourselves. Always our endeavor is sustained by the everlasting arms of God.

A small girl was walking down the street hand in hand with her father. After a time her hand became tired and, turning to her father, she said, "Daddy, I can't hold much longer. You'll have to take hold of my hand now."

Always when we are weak there is the great, strong, sustaining hand of God.

Stevenson Strategy Is To Create News

WASHINGTON—The strategists in the Stevenson camp are not conceding the election because the Republicans have more money to buy saturation TV and radio time. In fact, they aren't even conceding that they are disadvantaged by the fact that full-length Stevenson-Kefauver speeches will not be on the television screens and airwaves as much as those of Eisenhower and Nixon.

This may be wishful thinking but I can report that it is the considered view of the publicity specialists at Democratic headquarters that saturation TV and radio is no magic substitute for other kinds of campaigning or that other approaches to public opinion are ineffective by comparison.

Their contention is that, for the most part, it is as unproductive to buy a vast amount of full-length speech time on TV as it would be to buy extensive newspaper space to publish the texts of the speeches. They see television not as a substitute but as a supplement to everything else.

Speeches are reported, reviewed and commented upon over radio and TV as well as in the press. The Democratic strategists figure it will be difficult for most citizens to escape getting the gist of the rival arguments and that the gist is about all the ordinary voter wants to hear or will listen to.

So far as the press is concerned, the politicians accept this fact. They want to see the highlights of their speeches reported but they do not in the main expect or care about the text being printed, for even if papers did carry the text, only a handful would read it.

As the novelty of TV has worn off, this attitude toward the press is coming to prevail toward TV.

On the foregoing premise the Stevenson campaign plans are these:

- (1) To buy nationwide saturation TV and radio time for only three or four major speeches.
- (2) To aim their radio-TV budget at getting across the flavor and human appeal of the nominee through spots, especially five-minute spots, not into high-rating shows.
- (3) To use TV and radio as much as possible to broaden the local and regional coverage when the candidate is on tour.
- (4) To do a good deal of whistle-stopping which produces a daily bundle of newspaper, TV and radio news carried free.
- (5) To make news and plenty of it every day.

It is evident that Stevenson has been acting on this premise and since his nomination has been making headlines morning and afternoon.

Another Dixon-Yates Is on GOP Horizon

WASHINGTON—The atom promises to become as hot in the forthcoming presidential campaign as it has long been in the rivalry between West and East, with the immediate political focus on the new power reactor plant which the Atomic Energy Commission has authorized a group of private utilities to construct.

Democratic members of the joint Senate-House Atomic Committee charged that operation of the fast-breeder reactor plant at Lagoona Beach, Mich., was a potential danger to the seven-million population in the Detroit-Toledo area. Chairman Clinton Anderson and Rep. Chet Holifield accused the commission of suppressing the report of its advisory committee on reactor safeguards which, they said, raised grave doubts as to the safety of the proposed reactor.

The AEC ruled that the report of the safeguards committee was "administratively confidential." The commission last July 17 denied the demand of Gov. G. Mennen Williams of Michigan that the report be made public.

This reporter has obtained a copy of the report. While it is phrased in highly technical language, the doubts expressed by the scientists and industrialists comprising the committee are seen to be even more serious than were indicated by isolated paragraphs previously quoted.

"The committee as a whole," the report states, "was not satisfied with the evidence presented that no credible supercriticality accident resulting from meltdown could breach the container."

In nontechnical language this means that the committee felt that an explosion of the fast-breeder reactor with a resultant atomic fallout in the highly populated area was not impossible.

Some members of the Senate-House committee are convinced the Michigan plant will never be built. It will be used as an advertisement for the peacetime free enterprise development of the atom until after the election in November and then it will be quietly dropped. But in the meantime it may prove an embarrassment similar in kind if not in degree to the Dixon-Yates deal.

Cobb County prison officials said Harvey and Ray had been assigned to read water meters in the Vinings community near Marietta. They disappeared in a county-owned pickup truck shortly after 2 p.m.

An hour later, a pickup truck with the lettering "Cobb County Public Works" on the door smashed into a parked auto in front of 186 Georgia Ave., SE. Ptl. F. L. Russell said the truck sped away.

Squads of police surrounded a house on Ormewood avenue, SE, where Harvey's wife resides. Sgt. U. G. Oaks said he arrested Ray in the truck parked in front of the house.

Atlanta officers said Harvey and Ray would be released to Cobb County prison officials. They added charges against the two here will be discussed with Fulton Sol. Gen. Paul Webb.

Paroled more than two years ago, Harvey was married and is the father of a small child. He was arrested in DeKalb County early this year on charges of carrying concealed weapons, carrying a pistol without a license and on an attempted robbery and kidnapping charge from Columbus.

He subsequently was found not guilty on the Columbus charge. DeKalb Police Capt. R. A. Boone said his first hearing on the DeKalb charges ended in a mistrial. However, Boone said the DeKalb charges are still outstanding.

by another message of support by telegram from Sen. Richard B. Russell at Winder, who was unable to attend.

State Treasurer George B. Hamilton said the Knoxville meeting and the tremendously enthusiastic reception given the Democratic nominees in this Republican stronghold of Dixie is an encouraging sign.

"I can't see anything," he said, "but the South going solidly Democratic again this year."

Carey Skelton of Hartwell, whose home county of Hart gave Adlai a record 15-1 majority in 1952, said the same thing.

Denmark Groover of Macon, new national committeeman from Georgia, said the Knoxville rally "indicates to me that the breach in the South has healed."

The Georgians all seemed to agree on the display of Southern unity and they even smiled when the band played "The Tennessee Waltz" in honor of Kefauver.

The Georgia delegation's arrival here was dramatic.

A big crowd already had gathered at the McGhee-Tyson Airport a half hour before the Democratic presidential and vice presidential nominees arrived from Sioux City, Iowa. Suddenly a National Guard transport swooped down onto the field and taxied up to the crowd.

It was the "Georgia Peach" bearing Gov. Griffin and his official party.

Reporters and photographers surged up to the aircraft as Griffin and his party disembarked while a high school band warmed up for the Stevenson-Kefauver arrival.

The first person off the Georgia plane after Griffin alighted was Mrs. Edna Kendrick of Columbus, new Democratic national committeewoman from the Peach State. Next came State Labor Commissioner Ben T. Hulet, Skelton, Hamilton and Frank M. (Tobe) Etheridge of Atlanta.

They were followed by State Game and Fish Director Fulton Lovell; Garland Byrd of Atlanta; Groover, and H. L. Chichester, Bibb County chairman from Macon.

Already on hand at the airport were five Georgia congressmen who came up to Knoxville earlier. They were Reps. J. L. Pilcher of Meigs, Henderson Lanham of Rome, Phil Landrum of Gainesville, James C. Davis of Stone Mountain and Jack Flynt of Griffin.

Also at the Knoxville field were former Gov. M. E. Thompson, who is running for the U.S. Senate; Bobby Lee Cook of Summerville; Herman Hendrick of Jasper, L. R. Morgan of LaGrange, and W. D. Sanders of Newnan.

Nation's Lawyers Refuse To Send Observer to U.N.

DALLAS, Tex., Aug. 30.—The House of Delegates defeated by a margin of seven votes today a proposal that the American Bar Assn. appoint an accredited observer to the United Nations.

Since the House is the legislative body, its actions become the policy of the association.

The vote was on a recommendation of the Section of International and Comparative Law, of which Victor C. Folsom of New York is chairman. It proposed that the bar association become a member of the Non-Governmental Organizations group accredited to the U.S. mission to the United Nations and the conference group of the U.S. National Organizations on the United Nations.

When a vote was taken at this 79th annual meeting of the bar association 71 delegates favored the recommendation and 78 opposed.

Lawyers Rule Out Force, Back Integration Decision

By LUTHER A. HUSTON

(Copyright 1956 by The New York Times Co.)

DALLAS, Tex., Aug. 30.—The American Bar Association approved today by a vote of 118 to 101 a resolution urging willing compliance with the Supreme Court's school segregation decision as an alternative to enforced compliance.

The resolution was proposed by Palmer Hutcheson, of Houston, Tex. He made a fervent speech in support of it. One of its strongest advocates was C. Waldo Haines, of Atlanta, Ga.

(Haines, a member of the bar, lives at 5006 Catalina Dr., Chamblee. He is a securities salesman for an Atlanta brokerage firm.)

The resolution read: "Resolved, that as lawyers we recognize that the remedy of specific performance was originally necessitated by the existence of unwilling or recalcitrant compliance with the judgments of the highest court of the land, and that either one or the other (that is, the specific performance or willing compliance) is the only successful means of avoiding enforcement by those charged with the duty of the execution thereof."

RESOLUTION PRESENTED

Robert B. Troutman, of Atlanta, Ga., chairman of the resolutions committee, presented the resolution to the assembly of the bar association. The committee, he said, felt that it stated a fundamental position so long recognized that action by the assembly was unnecessary. He said the committee had no objection, however, if the assembly wished to vote on it.

Mr. Hutcheson leaped to that challenge. He urged that a vote be taken.

"More important than segregation, more important than desegregation," he declared, "is respect for law and order. I am only asking willing compliance with the law that we do not like but have to take."

AUTHORINE LUCY CASE

Mr. Hutcheson recounted instances of defiance in Southern states of the segregation decisions, some of them related in this morning's newspapers. One that he cited was the Authorine Lucy case at the University of Alabama last year. Miss Lucy, now Mrs. Foster, a Negro, was the object of threats and disorders that resulted when she sought to enter the university as a student. She ultimately was admitted but later was expelled for making false statements against university officials.

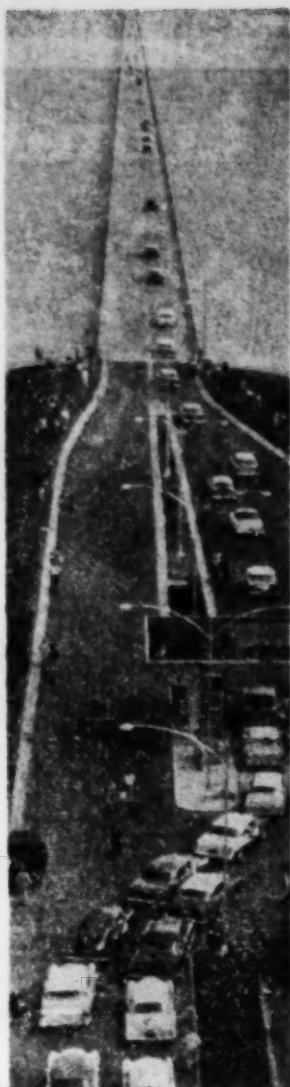

Mr. Hutcheson pleaded with the assembly not to let "silence give consent" to such defiance. "Let us instead say that we stand for law and order," he pleaded.

Mr. Haines joined in saying that the bar association should not condone resistance by silence in demanding a vote on the resolution. He said he wanted the resolution approved because "if mobocracy prevails, law and order is at an end."

Franklin Riter, of Utah, moved that the resolution be approved. On a voice vote President E. Smythe Gambrell, of Atlanta, was uncertain. On a rising vote the resolution was adopted by seven votes.

GRAND SPAN — NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 30

Stretching into the distance is the 24-mile Lake Pontchartrain bridge, the world's longest, which was opened to traffic Thursday. Cars are lined up to go through gates on South Plaza just outside New Orleans. Construction was supervised by Brig. Gen. Joseph J. Twitty (USA-Ret.), native of Pelham, Ga., who also assisted in the planning and construction of Allatoona Reservoir and Buford Dam in Georgia.

Farm Value A Record—So Is Debt

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30 (AP)—The value of the nation's farms increased to a record level last year—and so did farm debt.

The Federal Reserve System reported today that farm assets hit a new high of 171 billion dollars on Jan. 1, while farm debt climbed to nearly 19 billion.

Net farm income dropped about 5 per cent during the year.

MONTHLY BULLETIN
These figures were reported in "The Balance Sheet of Agriculture, 1956," appearing in the reserve's monthly bulletin.

The jump in farm assets was attributed mainly to increases in the value of farm real estate. Also figured as assets are such items as automobiles, household furnishings, buildings, tractors, trucks, farm machinery and inventories of crops.

Compared with the figure for a year earlier, farm assets were up 3½ billion, or about 2 per cent. The increase in 1954 had amounted to five billion, or 5 per cent.

2 ASSETS DIP
Only two major types of farm assets declined in the two-year period. These were inventories of livestock and of crops.

Farm debts, including price-support loans, increased a billion dollars in 1955 compared with an increase of 600 million in 1954.

Total gross farm income in 1955 was 33½ billion, or about 2 per cent less than in 1954. Farm production costs rose about 1 per cent. Because of the decrease in income and the rise in costs, total net income from agriculture dropped by more than 800 million or about 5 per cent.

U.S. Spending At Peak With Fewer Loans

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30 (UP)—Americans are spending their money at record rates this year, but are not leaning as heavily on credit as last year, the Federal Reserve Board reported today.

Consumer buying, excluding automobiles, has run six per cent ahead of last year while the increase in income after taxes has been just under six per cent.

Thus far, this buying "has been supported to a smaller extent by installment credit than in 1955," the board said.

New automobile sales are far under last year but the used car market fell off only one-eighth in the peak selling season of March through June.

In May, June and July consumer prices went up, hitting new highs in the past two months.

Pentagon Is Accused Of 'Censoring' Movies

(Copyright 1956 by The New York Times Co.)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—A charge that the Defense Department was "censoring" motion pictures erupted at the Capitol today. The "censoring," Rep. Melvin Price (D-Ill.) alleged, was being done through "brass-colored glasses" wherein an enlisted man could be a villain but an officer could not.

The Pentagon retorted that the criteria under which the Army had refused to cooperate in producing the picture entitled "Attack!" had been developed with the full concurrence by the motion picture industry.

Price, a long-time member of the House Armed Services Committee, had just seen a preview of "Attack!" He pronounced it a picture that should be seen especially by the troops, the flyers and the fighting men on the decks of ships.

"DEFENSE CONCERNED"

"The Defense Department," he said, "obviously is concerned because the character involved is an officer." In the picture an officer is depicted as a coward under the blasts of attack, while other officers and enlisted men had carried through heroically.

"If he (the coward) were an enlisted man," Price added, "he could apparently be presented with impunity as a coward and a moral weakling. But according to the Pentagon, an officer may not be shown in such unfavorable light."

"Denying that officers are subject to human failings is blatant nonsense. . . . It is ridiculous to fear that 'Attack!' may make the viewer think less of the Army because it shows a single officer as weak and cowardly. Two of the other officers with major roles—both lieutenants—are shown as exceptional heroes. The film makes it perfectly clear that they are more representative of the Army than the cowardly captain, who is clearly an exception."

FEARS BAN

Price expressed a fear that, because of Pentagon refusal to cooperate, the picture might be banned from showings at military installations here and abroad. The Pentagon said that the question of procuring films for troop showing rested with an independent section of the armed services that made its own decisions. This section, the Defense Department stated, had requested a complete copy of the film for review, looking to acceptance or rejection for distribution throughout the military forces. To date, it added, no film had been presented. So, it added, it was still unable to say whether it would include "Attack!" in its military entertainment programs.

This controversy was against a background of years of film making in which a picture being presented could announce proudly that its story was watched and subscribed to by technicians and high officers of the armed service involved.

REWRITING

In this case, it developed, the Army had suggested a rewriting of the script before the picture was made. The company, United Artists, went ahead with the picture, without Army help.

At the Pentagon it was insisted that it operated, in the matter of movies, according to the criteria developed in cooperation between the Defense Department and the film industry.

Locust Grove Bank Held Up and Brown into the vault, closed the door and shoved a desk against it.

A few moments later, Joe Massey of Griffin walked into the bank on a business transaction. Childs and Brown shouted to Massey and asked him if he saw anyone in the bank.

When Massey replied "No," they asked him to go for help.

Massey returned with L. H. Mason and Otis Barnes of Locust Grove, who assisted in removing the desk from against the vault door. Childs and Brown said the vault door can be opened from the inside by manipulating a safety device.

The Atlanta FBI office said the bank is a member of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. and thus FBI agents rushed to the scene to join in the investigation.

Mart Fence To Keep Out All Drunks

The nuisance of drunks at the Atlanta State Farmers Market "will completely disappear" when the new state market is built and occupied, according to State Agriculture Commissioner Phil Campbell.

Campbell made the statement in a letter to Judge Luke Arnold of Atlanta Municipal Court in reply to a letter from Judge Arnold about the matter.

The market will be located two or three miles from the city limits on the east side of the South Expressway. The contract has been let for grading but work has not begun.

IMBEDDED IN CONCRETE

The commissioner said the problem would disappear because the new market "will have a fence imbedded in concrete completely encircling the market with a controlled entrance and exit gate, which will enable us to prevent inebriated individuals from entering the market."

Absolutely no drinking will be permitted at the new market, "as none is permitted on the present market when the individuals can be apprehended." The present market has no fence, however, "and it is impossible" to establish a fence around it, Campbell emphasized.

WANDER AT WILL

Without a fence, "people can walk on and off the market at will at anytime of the day or night."

The commissioner said that when the state leaves the present market site, "the City of Atlanta will still have on its hands" drunks now causing the problem. They are not a part of the market operation and "will not be moved to the new market site," he said.

$6,382 Bad Check Laid To Lay Preacher Here

A thrice-married Atlanta lay preacher with a criminal record dating to 1925 is being sought on a fraudulent check charge, John K. Mumford, agent in charge of the FBI office here, said Thursday night.

Homes Tax Easing Asked By Whitman

The state's $2,000 homestead exemption "is not giving the homeowner the tax reduction originally intended," George P. Whitman Jr. said Thursday in a statement on his candidacy for the Legislature.

The homestead exemption "should be increased in line with today's dollar value" as soon as practical, Whitman said.

The chairman of the State Board of Education and State School Building Authority pledged if elected "to serve the best interests of all the people with no regard to special interests or special groups."

Whitman pledged to work for adequate and accessible hospital facilities for all residents of Fulton County and an adequate water supply for all sections.

The candidate also said he would work to see that the state, rather than local taxpayers, finances $38 million in needed new Atlanta and Fulton schools. He said he would work to obtain appropriations from the Legislature to build the schools through the School Building Authority.

Mumford identified the man as Galen M. Moon, 55-year-old salesman and draftsman, of 1013 Ponce de Leon Ave., N.E. Moon's name is pre-faxed with "Rev." in the telephone book. He has been active in several Baptist churches in the Atlanta area.

Moon, a parolee from Oklahoma, was charged in a warrant dated Aug. 23 with interstate transportation of a fraudulent check in the amount of $6,382.

Mumford said that Moon deposited the check in an account he had in a local bank, then wrote checks on the account to purchase a new Cadillac and a Buick. Both cars and Moon are now missing.

FBI records show Moon was first convicted in 1925 in Kansas on a forgery charge.

Mumford said records in the office here were incomplete, but did show that Moon was sentenced to 40 years in Oklahoma in 1933 for robbery with firearms.

Moon left the Oklahoma State Penitentiary on a "leave of absence" in 1942 and was paroled while on leave. His parole was revoked in 1946, Mumford said.

Mumford said that Moon also served time in the federal prison here in 1951 on fraudulent check and stolen car charges.

Moon conducted prayer services at the Central Baptist Church about a year ago and is now reported to be a member of the Emmanuel Baptist Church where he recently has performed personal visitations.

Those Cannonballs Are Loaded, Suh; Gray Army's Ammo Isn't All Gone

Ten War Between the States cannonballs found recently on Missionary Ridge at Chattanooga are considered dangerous and the Third Army plans to send demolition experts there to destroy the 90-year-old ammunition.

In a letter to amateur archaeologist Earle Espy, who found the cannonballs, Col. James L. Massey, ordnance officer, said he was quite certain the missiles are loaded.

Espy had planned to give the cannonballs to the museum at the Chickamauga-Chatanooga National Military Park.

Park Supt. Charles Dunn said the find was one of the largest in this area since the War Between the States and that they were "excellent specimens."

Child Neglect Arrest Ends U.S. Holdup Spree

Arrest of a Thomaston textile worker on a child abandonment charge has resulted in the solving of several armed robberies from coast to coast, according to Upson County Sheriff E. T. Bray.

Edward Short, 27-year-old textile worker under parole from Kilby State Prison, Alabama, is lodged in Upson County jail. Under arrest in connection with the case is a McRae woman, Mrs. Mildred Strom, mother of three children.

Investigators gave the following version:

Mrs. Strom has confessed to being with Short and two other men when they committed armed robberies in New Orleans, La., El Paso, Texas, California, and several other places. She also supplied information to the identification of an accomplice now being held in an El Paso jail, Bray said.

Short, father of one child, left Thomaston Aug. 11 with Mrs. Strom shortly after the child was born, according to Mrs. Strom's sworn statement.

They fled to New Orleans, her statement said, where they joined two other men, identified as Nobel Brown, believed to be from LaGrange, and a man known only as "Spivey."

She said the three men carried out a robbery that netted $50, then left for California, committing another robbery en route of $200.

En route back to Georgia, Mrs. Strom said, Short robbed a service station of $50, then carried her to her mother's home in McRae. It was there that she was arrested Wednesday by Sheriff Bray and confessed to the coast-to-coast escapade, the sheriff said.

It was the arrest of Short by Thomaston city police Lt. Bob Burkett and officer Slim Watson on an abandonment warrant that broke the case, Bray said.

Short had in his possession clothing, a suitcase and a sawed-off shotgun, that proved to be all stolen, according to investigators.

Driver Dead in Car
A Greyhound bus driver was found dead early Thursday in an overturned automobile on Highway 41 between Cartersville and Emerson, police said. He was identified as J. B. Coker of Cartersville.

The new $250,000 Administration and Classroom Building for Truett-McConnell Junior College at Cleveland will be dedicated Sept. 5. Dr. Searcy S. Garrison, executive secretary and treasurer of the Georgia Baptist Convention, will be the speaker.

Beauty Contests
A beauty contest and talent show will be highlights of the annual Colquitt County Fair Oct. 15-20, officials said. The fair will be staged in conjunction with the centennial celebration.

A rodeo queen contest will be held with the Georgia State Championship Rodeo at Waycross, Sept. 21-23. Mrs. Herniece Gable, 30, of Warner Robins, has been acquitted of charges of murdering her former husband, Sergio Marazzi, Warner Robins attorney. An all-male jury returned the verdict after two hours of deliberation.

Blackshear Hearing Slated in Child Stealing Case

BLACKSHEAR, Ga., Aug. 30 (AP)—A hearing is scheduled here Saturday in the dispute between a socially prominent California woman and her former husband whom she has charged with stealing their two young sons.

Mrs. Elizabeth Wing Concanon filed the child stealing complaint in San Jose, Calif., yesterday against Col. Elmer H. Walker.

Judge Cecil M. Roddenberry of the Waycross Judicial Circuit set the Sept. 1 hearing here on a custody proceeding brought by Walker. And the judge said San Jose District Attorney N. J. Menard is welcome to attend the hearing.

"He will find that we have the fairer courts in the world,"

Roddenberry said. He referred to a remark by Menard who was quoted as saying: "I've heard about Georgia justice, but I can't understand how any court can sanction such a deal as this."

Roddenberry said each case is judged on its merits and according to the law of Georgia. "We don't prejudice cases. Everyone who comes into court, wealthy and poor, is treated with equal consideration," he added.

Lacount Walker, clerk of the superior court here, and no relation to the army officer, said the two boys are staying with A. E. Davis who, Walker said, "is supposed to be related to Col. Walker."

The clerk did not know the colonel's whereabouts. "He's supposed to be somewhere in Pennsylvania," he said.

Third Army Headquarters in Atlanta did not have him on its records, so he is not stationed in this area.

Rooftop Moonshine Business Is Down

Employees in a building on Cain street, N.E., were disturbed by noises on the roof.

They decided to investigate and discovered seven gallons of moonshine whisky atop the building at the rear of 189 Cain St.

Evidently the owner made a trip up each time he made a sale, police said.

The liquor was confiscated by Ptl. R. J. Walker and F. H. Weaver.

Formal nomination of Thrower cannot be made until the Republican State Central Committee meets here Sept. 8. However, Friday's action will leave no doubts in the matter.

SUPPORT

The three other men mentioned as possible candidates have declared their support for Thrower. They are Swift, Charles Moye, attorney and 1954 candidate for Congress, and golfer-textile man Charles Yates.

Swift, furthermore, has been authorized to say Thrower will accept the nomination and that he will wage a vigorous campaign.

Thrower is slated to talk to the group Friday on conversations he had with congressional leaders in San Francisco during the recent Republican convention.

CONFERENCE

Thrower talked there with Minority Leader Joe Martin and Rep. Richard Simpson of Pennsylvania, chairman of the Republican Congressional campaign.

The prospective candidate is former president of the Atlanta Bar Assn. and former president of the Emory University Alumni Assn.

On his way back from San Francisco, he attended the annual meeting of the American Bar Assn. in Dallas, Tex. He was one of three men appointed to the section on taxation of the ABA Council.

Shot-in-Arm Voter Rally Is Planned

A mid-day downtown parade and political speech-making rally is being planned by the Metropolitan Atlanta Voting Council to give a "shot in the arm" to interest in the Sept. 12 primary.

Sidney Haskins, council chairman, said the organization tentatively has set the date of the parade for Sept. 10. Dick Nolen, parade marshal, said he hopes to get clearance on the date this week from city officials.

Haskins said the organization wants to march the parade through downtown Atlanta and wind it up at the "rally point," possibly Five Points or Hurt Park, where each Fulton County candidate would be allowed to speak about three minutes each.

The chairman said the parade would include as many of the candidates as possible—riding in open convertibles. The parade marshal said he hoped to include 50 units.

With a mid-town rally during the working-man's lunch hour, the council chairman said, a larger crowd would show up than if the speech-making were held elsewhere.

Haskins recalled that Hurt Park was filled to overflowing when President Eisenhower spoke there in 1952.

On election day, the organization will remind voters of their citizenship obligation by the sounding of fire engine and police car sirens, civil defense warning sirens, church bells and other noise-makers. Haskins said this would occur at 8 a.m.

Virginian Takes Education Post

Miss Mildred Witten of Tazewell, Va., has arrived in Atlanta to become assistant state supervisor of vocational office training for the State Department of Education.

Miss Witten has her Master's degree from Virginia Polytechnic Institute at Blacksburg, Va. She taught business education in the high schools of Pulaski and Tazewell, and she was coordinator of vocational education for six years at the Lane High School in Charlottesville, Va.

Peak 115,000 Pupils Seen in Atlanta

Miss Ira Jarrell, school superintendent, Thursday predicted the heaviest enrollment in history when the 1956-57 school year opens Tuesday.

She said enrollment for the first day should exceed 96,000 and forecast enrollment will be upwards of 115,000 before schools close next June.

"We have the best staff of teachers, the best buildings and other facilities in history, although we will be 787 classrooms short," Miss Jarrell added. "More than 20,000 students will be on double session or in classrooms in churches, community houses, Scout huts and other places other than schools, but we expect our very best year.

"Our staff has worked hard. We are ready for the opening, and we believe we are in the best position ever although we are far short of meeting classroom needs. We know parents, students, teachers and the public will help us reduce traffic accidents and keep our children safe."

Some students must register at the school they propose to attend beginning at 9 a.m. Friday.

Miss Jarrell said students in the following categories should register:

Those needing examinations; those entering Atlanta schools for the first time except those entering kindergartens; those entering the low eighth grade (high school) for the first time, and those wanting special schedules so they may work.

DeKalb's Blount Pegs Campaign to Business Record

His 40 years of business experience are more important to good government than the ability to make good speeches, Claude H. Blount, candidate for chairman of the DeKalb County Commission, said in his initial campaign television appearance Wednesday night.

Discussing the tax situation Blount said the county government could probably function on a 25 per cent of true value basis for tax assessments.

"But a 25 per cent basis of assessment would absolutely prevent the county schools from voting enough bonds to provide anywhere near enough school rooms for the greatly-increased school enrollment now and in future years," he added.

"If we do not provide these school facilities, residential values will drop. New construction will stop and unemployment in the building trades will rise rapidly," Blount said.

TAKE SHELL SAFE DRIVING QUIZ NO. 14 FOR A SAFER LABOR DAY TRIP

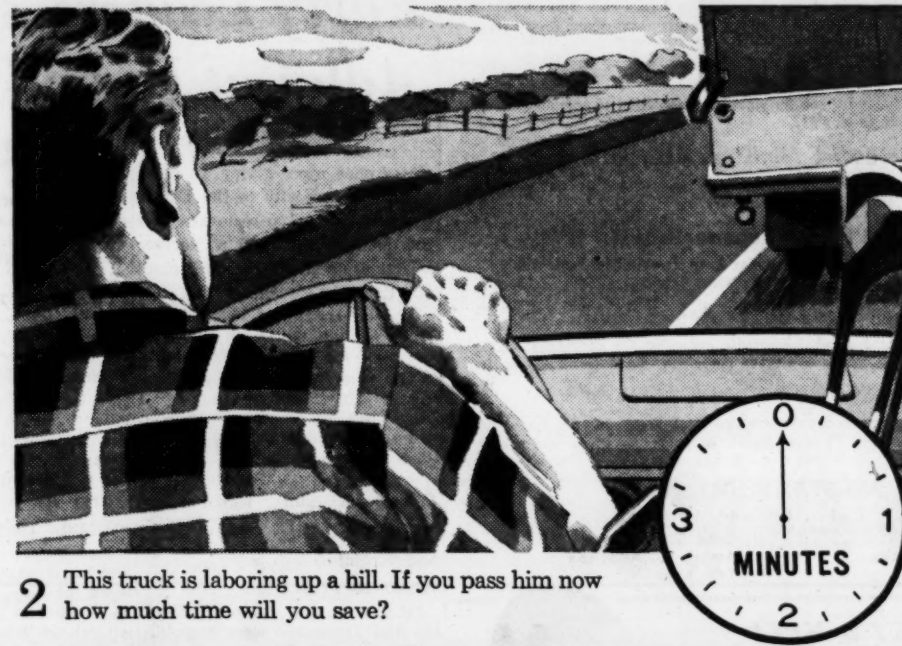

How much time does "speed-cheating" really save?

The "speed-cheater" breaks rules, is always in a hurry. Example: a 12-mile trip to the golf course, ballgame or theater normally takes 20 minutes.

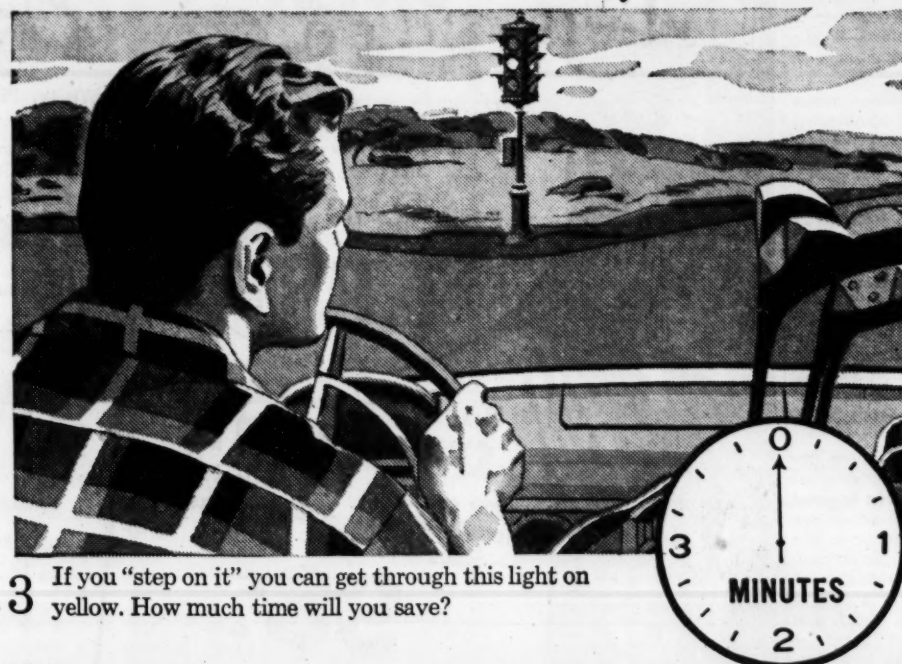

On the clocks, indicate the time you think a "speed-cheater" saves in each situation shown. Compare your estimate with the "Answers" below.

1 How much time can you save by ignoring this "STOP" sign?

2 This truck is laboring up a hill. If you pass him now how much time will you save?

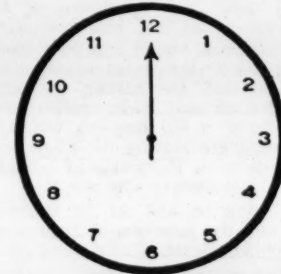

3 If you "step on it" you can get through this light on yellow. How much time will you save?

4 Here's a nice straightaway just about a mile long. Let's make time! How much time if you hit 70?

TOTAL: Add up on this clock the total time you think the "speed-cheater" saved in the four situations above.

Take it easy: save a life—not a minute!

ANSWERS — You'll have saved a total of 3½ minutes at most — less time than it takes a foursome to tee off. For example:

1. By coming to a full stop and then starting again you will add less than 30 seconds to your traveling time.
2. Any hill is too short for you to gain anything by passing recklessly. But in this case, let's grant that you might save about a minute and a half at most.
3. Very few traffic lights hold the red for longer than 60 seconds. That's the most you can save by jumping through on yellow.
4. Covering a mile at 70 m.p.h. rather than at 40 will save you about a half minute.

TOTAL SAVING on your 20-minute trip: 3½ minutes. Is it worth it?

states once more giving an overwhelming majority to the Democratic ticket in a restoration of the old solid South. If no serious mistakes are made, we will elect our ticket in November."

Russell concluded his message from Winder, Ga., with a note of personal regards to Stevenson.

The assemblage of Dixie Democratic leaders here included five governors, 10 senators, 16 congressmen and most all of the state party chairmen.

Represented were Georgia, Florida, Alabama, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee, Kentucky, Mississippi, Louisiana and Virginia.

WENT REPUBLICAN

Of this number, Virginia, Florida and Tennessee went Republican four years ago.

But Sen. Spessard Holland of Florida and Mayor Haydon Burns of Jacksonville told Stevenson they believe Florida can and will be brought back into the Democratic fold this year.

Former Gov. Jim McCord of Tennessee said the same thing about the Volunteer State after Gov. Frank Clement already had predicted a Democratic victory here.

Pat Jennings, Virginia congressman, was more cautious about his state but said his own district will be in the Democratic column this year.

"I LIKE IKE" OVER

South Carolina Sen. Olin D. Johnston said his people don't love Ike like they did four years ago and are fed up with broken promises. Edgar Brown, South Carolina national committeeman, said: "The 'I Like Ike' business is over in South Carolina."

Gov. James P. Coleman of Mississippi predicted his state will double its 1952 majority for the Democratic ticket.

Sen. John Sparkman of Alabama, the 1952 vice presidential nominee, ripped into the Republicans for their farm policies which he said are hurting the small farmer and their special privileges to big business which he said are hurting the small businessman. He predicted a Democratic victory this year.

And on and on the comment and the promises of Democratic victory went.

UNITY IMPORTANT

In the end Stevenson addressed them all and said the meeting had meant a great deal to him. But he said it was important to have a united party.

"I have felt a very strong Democratic current running in the land," he declared, "and it has been gaining rapidly in the last six months."

But whether the current is irresistible, he said, depends on whether the Democrats will really work for the victory.

Kefauver joined him in attacking the Republicans for broken promises on TVA and conservation of resources, and said he had had encouraging messages from the Joe Smiths of the nation.

The grim accusations against the Republicans were the only serious note in an otherwise gay and happy day for Stevenson and Kefauver.

Thousands of Tennesseans met the Democratic nominees at the airport while tens of thousands lined the streets of Knoxville to cheer their progress in a caravan of buses and convertibles that rolled through the city. More hundreds surrounded them during a pause at Norris Dam where Stevenson went high on an overlook to get a view of the first of the TVA power and flood control developments.

There was a huge crowd at Oak Ridge and hundreds on the way at Lake City and at Clinton where there have been disturbances over attempted integration of the high school. Adlai and Estes were practically mobbed as the crowd at Norris Dam pushed and shoved in the sweltering hot August sun to get a chance to shake their hands.

It was during his brief speech after arriving at the airport that Stevenson made his scathing attack on the Eisenhower administration for failures in developing atomic energy for peacetime purposes.

"WHERE HISTORY WALKS"

Stevenson commented that his whirlwind tour of the nation this week already had taken him to New Mexico near Los Alamos where the first atomic explosion occurred and then to Bonneville Dam in Oregon where power is supplied for the Hanford, Wash., Atomic Laboratory—and now to Oak Ridge.

"Oak Ridge is a place where history walks," Adlai commented. "Here mortal man first penetrated into the deepest mystery of his natural world today, whether we like it or not, the atom is here to stay. Indeed the atom today is inescapable."

"It is the burden and the opportunity of this generation to use it wisely in all its aspects."

NOT MEETING CHALLENGE

"Are we using it altogether wisely today? I do not think so. I do not think we are measuring up to the challenge of the atom's potentials."

Stevenson said that after the first atomic bomb was dropped President Truman moved to meet the dangers ahead and set in motion a plan to outlaw atomic bombs in a move that was frustrated, however, by Russian rigidity.

"But that was nearly a decade ago," Stevenson said, "and now the atomic bomb has paled in the awful glare of the hydrogen bomb and the nightmare of a nuclear arms race has become a reality."

"Churchmen and laymen from many lands and many faiths have implored us to face up to our moral responsibility to halt it. But we, great America, who bear a special responsibility in this matter because we dropped the first and only atomic bombs, have failed to become the first to take new and imaginative steps that might lead to worldwide nuclear disarmament."

Stevenson commented that only this week President Eisenhower casually announced from California that the Soviets had exploded another nuclear weapon.

MUST NOT GIVE UP

"Let us remember that only a few years ago splitting the atom seemed as difficult as disarming it seems today," Adlai continued. "We did not then and we must not now throw up our hands in the face of difficulties and let this deadly race run its ghastly course," he declared.

"Yet I see no sign that President Eisenhower and his associates are either able or determined to stop it," Stevenson declared. Stevenson and Kefauver were warmly welcomed and introduced from an airport truck platform by Tennessee's eloquent young Gov. Frank Clement, the Democratic keynoter at Chicago.

Executive Jiggled Elevator Too Much

By MARJORY SMITH

TWO GENTLEMEN who occasionally run into each other at Five Points let several traffic lights change the other morning while they swapped golf scores and news, then parted with this pre-Labor Day holiday admonition:

"Don't tell me your fish stories, and I won't tell you mine!"

SHOPPERS' SPECIAL
Trolley operator sporting fresh pink rosebud tucked into transit company emblem on his uniform sleeve.

ATLANTA EXECUTIVE whose name appears on a slew of boards and civic organization rosters was about to push the button of the self-service elevator for the floor on which his office is located. A woman passenger stepped aboard and the executive politely asked for her floor number and "pushed" it.

As she got off, the recipient of his courtesy sniffed. "You must be new; I notice you jiggle the elevator too much." Then, as the gray-haired, gray-flannel-suited gentleman, still smiling, attempted to close the door, she added: "Now you just hold it for a minute and I'll be going right down again. Thank goodness, they finally put an operator on here. I just get panicky when I have to use one of these do-it-yourself elevators!"

HEARD THE LATEST CURE FOR ASTHMA? An Atlanta sufferer reports she has been advised to "sleep in the same room with a hairless chihuahua." Only trouble is she hasn't been able to locate the hairless breed around here. Any reader with information about such dogs is asked to telephone Mrs. Jordan at FO. 6-3201.

Candidates Swap Jobs at Negro Rally

By RICHARD ASHWORTH

Political office-holders seeking new jobs in the Sept. 12 Fulton County primary came under the fire of their opposition in speeches Thursday night before the Atlanta Negro Voters Guild.

Swapping charges about who should remain in his present office and allow the other to be elected were Criminal Court Judge Luther Alverson and Ald. Hamilton Douglas Jr., candidates for judge of the Fulton Superior Court, and Ald. Wayne T. Blanchard and M. R. (Randy) Dodd, candidates for sheriff.

"AMERICAN WAY"

"Let me suggest my opposition finish the term he's now serving and then run for Criminal Court. It's good basic training for Superior Court. It's the American way to start at the bottom of the ladder and work up," said Judge Alverson.

"He's asking to be promoted to high school when he still has two years to complete in his preparatory training," answered Douglas. "Let's keep Judge Alverson in Criminal Court and elect Hamilton Douglas Jr. to Superior Court."

In the sheriff's race, Dodd, a former city policeman, agreed with Blanchard's contention that Blanchard is "doing a good job as alderman." "But I suggest you leave him in that place," he said. "If you wanted a tooth pulled you wouldn't call a plumber, would you?" Dodd questioned.

UNSUITABLE

Various points on office-holding were emphasized in other races. J. C. (Jep) Tankley, running against Reuben A. Garland and Judge John L. Tye Jr. for Superior Court judge, said Garland has demonstrated in his public appearances that "he is unsuitable to serve as judge."

Reuben A. Garland Jr., speaking for his father, said Garland was against an upcoming constitutional amendment which would extend Superior Court judgeship terms to eight years. "If a man stays in office eight years, there's no telling what amount of power he might control," he declared.

Sidney Lanier, seeking the judgeship held by Judge Durwood T. Pye, said "no man who has bias or prejudice or hatred in his heart can be a good judge." But he did not say if this referred to Judge Pye.

State Senate candidate Jess Walton repeated the charge that his opponents Hoke Smith and Charlie Brown, were factional candidates and said "both have

Rally Debates DeKalb Tax, Wet or Dry

By GENE LEGETTE

DeKalb County's controversial tax situation sparked a chain reaction that touched on whether the county should be wet or dry, and ended with one candidate charging another with Republican leanings Thursday night at the Toney Elementary School.

The sponsoring League of Women Voters had presented a double-barrelled question. How should the county arrive at a fair assessment of property, and should tax be levied on 25 or 50 per cent of the value?

ALCOHOL

Candidate John W. Chambers called for an expert outside appraisal of all DeKalb properties. He said the county could use a 25 per cent figure under certain conditions — efficiently operated departments, new industry for the county and if DeKalb could derive benefit from the money its citizens spend for alcoholic beverages.

"Let's not be hypocrites. If people are going to drink, why not buy it in the county," Chambers said.

After indicating that he stood for a 50 percent figure Dennis F. Jones regained the microphone to say that the county would have to spend more for law enforcement than it would receive from the sale of "beer."

He then brought up what he called the "real issue" in the race.

SLEEPER

He charged that the Republican Party was attempting to place a sleeper in the Democratic race rather than hold its own primary. He indicated that Chambers, a member of the Atlanta law firm of Gambrell, Harlan, Russell, Moye and Richardson, was influenced by Charles A. Moye Jr., an unsuccessful GOP candidate for Congress against Rep. James C. Davis two years ago.

After the meeting Chambers denied the statement, saying he was a Democrat.

Most of the candidate's discussion swirled about the tax question, which at one point saw Dr. Frank Newman pledge to oust the present assessors.

DeKalb's road situation came under the fire of Clyde Henley, who said the county "is just moving the holes around, not fixing them." He favored appraisal and 50 per cent.

WELL VICTIM—Mrs. Pauline Henson, 35, is comforted by her husband, Ebb Henson, at the Powder Springs Clinic after an unexpected dunking in an abandoned well. slush funds. I've got a statement to make in the next few days about slush funds and I want to see if the papers print that," he asserted.

Ralph McClelland and a spokesman for L. J. O'Callaghan jumped on Legislature candidate George P. Whitman Jr. for drawing $5,200 last year while holding two state political offices. Hitting Whitman's promise to get $38 million for local school buildings, McClelland said these needs "did not arise when the entries closed."

Rep. M. M. (Mugsy) Smith answered F. W. (Buddy) Griffin's charges about Smith's "riding around in police cars." Said Smith, "Sure I ride around in

Despite Age, Mind, Body May Excel

By DR. T. R. VAN DELLEN

Physical strength and endurance reach their peak between 18 and 25. By age 30 most professional athletes are on the wane. Yet many persons remain physically active beyond retirement age by regular exercise and healthful living.

Less is known about intelligence but there is evidence that it follows a similar pattern. A person who keeps himself in excellent mental condition by using the mind regularly may retain his intellectual powers until his dying day.

Many accountants and bank tellers on the brink of retirement can solve arithmetic problems more accurately than younger persons of comparable intelligence.

I know elderly architects, contractors, and businessmen who are better able to make estimates on the cost of a job than most of the younger executives in their firm. Their mind maintains alertness through regular and habitual usage. It is for this reason that everyone should continue to exercise mentally and physically all his life.

Many men and women are through when they lose interest; their mind and body deteriorate rapidly. Older persons who sit in a rocker staring into space or become lost in memories are likely to be candidates for rusty pipes and cobwebs in the brain.

It is natural for some deterioration to occur with age. The brain reaches its maximum size between the ages of 25 and 30. After 35, it begins to atrophy, but this is not as frightening as it sounds, as persons of superior intelligence increase in intellectual capacity until age 50.

Apparently we are endowed with more brain tissue than we need and, when used properly, we have enough to last a lifetime.

This may explain why post-mortem studies show no correlation between mental symptoms and brain changes. The individual who is non compos mentis at the time of death may have a brain that appears normal. The opposite has been observed also.

There is need for more research in this field because to date, most studies on intelligence are open to question. To my knowledge there have been no follow up intelligence tests taken on the same persons over a lifetime.

This type of survey would shed light on whether or not intelligence wanes with each succeeding decade.

Know Problems Of Schools, PTA Tells Candidates

A candidate for political office must have understanding and sympathy with school problems, according to the DeKalb Parent-Teacher Assn. Council.

While pointing out that the PTA does not endorse any political candidate, the council named three desirable qualifications for a political candidate.

"He must have understanding of and sympathy with county school problems, policies and accepted procedures, although the county government and schools are separate in administration," the council said. It called for close cooperation since the county must provide access roads and sidewalks to schools.

The candidate must "provide a tax digest to assure sufficient money to adequately finance the

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 heart	Pass	2 diam.	Pass
2 hearts	Pass	3 hearts	Pass
4 hearts	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: King of spades.

When a player faces the necessity for making a guess, the evil moment should be put off as long as possible. When a missing queen or a missing jack can be finessed in either direction it is good policy not to commit one's self too soon. If there is some other work to be done, set right to it and in the meantime the opposition might help you out of your dilemma by leading the suit that has presented you with the problem.

The declarer in today's hand was up against the question of locating the jack of trumps and succeeded in obviating the problem by a simple little ruse. The final contract of four hearts was slightly on the optimistic side, but the hand is admittedly difficult to bid. The two-diamond response is normal enough and the rebid to two hearts is routine. North felt that he had just a little too much to give up and commit the hand to a part score so he decided to make one more move. Inasmuch as the hearts had been rebid he decided his holding was adequate trump support and offered a distinctly questionable raise to three hearts. South had ample reason for going on to game.

The king of spades was opened and taken with the ace. The success of the ambitious contract depended upon the ability to pick up the jack of trumps. As can be seen the finesse can be taken in either direction. But rather than commit himself at once, declarer hit upon a simple method of getting the opponents to lead trumps for him. He promptly returned the jack of spades in order to give the immaintenance of present schools and to have bond issue elections to provide for necessary additional classrooms," the PTA said.

That the candidate must recognize that DeKalb County government is now "big business" was the third point emphasized by the PTA Council.

WORRY CLINIC: A Game To Aid Students

Billy T., 13, is in the 7th grade. "Dr. Crane, Billy was about to fail last year," his mother said. "For he couldn't spell and his English was terrible. He was almost at the bottom of his class."

"He grew so discouraged he wanted to quit school and get a job, but I told him he was too young."

"Since I never went beyond the first year of high school, I couldn't be much help to him, but I used to cry at night and pray that somehow I could keep him interested in school."

"Well, the very next week you had a column on how to tutor a child at home, and I ordered your booklet."

"And it got me interested in English grammar and reading, too. So I told Billy we'd test each other every night for 15 minutes."

"Later, I got his Daddy to join in. And it proved a lot of fun. But what was far more valuable to me was the fact that Billy's grades began to get better."

"It wasn't 6 weeks before he was making average marks. And before the year was over, he was in the upper 25 per cent of his class. "Meanwhile, I had improved in my English. We also bought an old typewriter from the office where my husband works. It cost us $25. "But it encouraged Billy and me to learn to type. I got a wall chart to show which fingers should be used on the keys."

"Then we would take turns practicing. Billy can now type about 25 words per minute by the touch system and I can do even better than that."

"But having to watch words more carefully, led to his better spelling and reading. And I earned an extra dividend myself."

"For I finally got enough self-confidence to enter some prize contests, now that we had a typewriter."

"And I was thrilled to death when I finally won a $10 cash award. Later I won an electric toaster, too."

"But the best reward of all is the fact that Billy is now interested in school and looking forward eagerly to going on to college. "That's what I hoped and prayed for, but he never would have done it except for this miracle."

"So tell all mothers not to give up hope. Have them use that booklet and make a game out of their 15 minutes of home study together."

"It will benefit the mothers, and change their children's entire outlook on life. I know from my own experience."

And that is quite true. I could cite thousands of similar cases. You mothers can make or break your children as regards their school success.

If you can tactfully boost your child's morale by helping him raise his school marks, then his dislike of school will change to fondness.

For we like that in which we excel and dislike that which labels us as a dummy.

By changing your child's outlook, you indirectly place a much surer financial foundation under his future home and guarantee him and

A Cracker for Sam

For what it's worth: It's a strange one when the manager (Neb Wilson) of a Cracker farm (Donalsonville) turns up in an enemy (Birmingham's) outfield in a time of need. But that's the way the Barons have replaced broken-armed Sam Supizio, and apparently it's as legal as can be. Here's one the NAACP won't like to believe, but John Glenn, a gangling Negro outfielder, is leading the Macon Peaches' fan popularity poll. Big John is straight out of Moultrie. . . . And whatever became of Roger Bannister?

Primo Carrera, who didn't like Hollywood's second-hand version of himself in "The Harder They Fall," strikes back. He comes out fighting this week in "A Kid for Two Farthings" at the Art Theater. . . . Whitlow Wyatt has been on leave of absence from the Phillies this week. Mrs. Wyatt's mother is critically ill in Buchanan. . . . Clyde King appears to have set a fashion with home run king Jack Daniels leading off. Pittsburgh began to lead with Frank Thomas awhile ago and Bill Rigney talks about coming out with Willie Mays in the top hole.

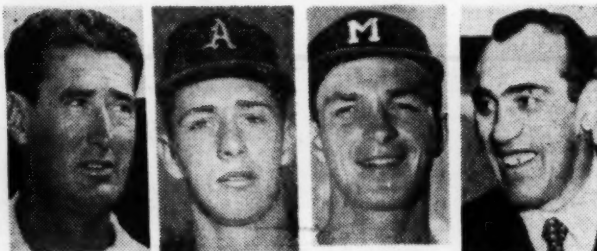

You're never too old to play football at Southern Cal. One of Jess Hill's tackles is a 31-year-old named Ben Lardizabal who lettered 15 years apart as a Trojan, as a serviceman in '44 and one of the students in '35. And he's back for '56. . . . Old football coaches refuse to die. They become television commentators, such as Bob Voigts, ex of Northwestern, now booked in Mel Allen's booth for NBC's Big Ten games this fall. . . . Here's a hot one. They're out with a pre-season academic All-America. This is taking a double chance, for a guy's got to have a booming year in the classroom to make the grade.

If Frank Lane hadn't made those deals, he'd have four of the National League's leading hitters on his side—Moon, Musial, Schoendienst and Virdon. . . . It's no contest for rookie of the year in the National. Frank Robinson of Cincinnati has it locked up. But in the American, Lou Skizas, .333 for Kansas City, should take it by default. There's practically no field. . . . Sermon at Audubon Methodist Church last Sunday night was delivered by Cracker Manager Clyde King, who warmed up on the umpires at Ponce de Leon Park that afternoon.

—Ted Williams and His Book

First 20-game winner in the class B Carolina League: Cracker alumnus long Jack Taylor. . . . That Atlanta-Nashville deal for Roy Pardue that didn't come off was okay with everybody but Gabe Paul. The Cincinnati boss holds rights to the left-hander and didn't care to let go. . . . This has been a fracturing season for Chuck Cottier, hit of the Crackers' spring. The kid second baseman broke his jaw twice, but still rated "prospect of the year" in the Evangeline League.

Paul Waner on Chuck Tanner: "I'd like to see that kid with a club where he could play every day. He's got a great swing." . . . I'm sure I must have read it somewhere, that Ted Williams plans to write a book about the Boston press entitled, "Nobody Up There Likes Me." . . . Hometown of the week: Cut 'n Shoot, Texas, cutting and shooting grounds of Roy Harris, Texas heavyweight champion. . . . While the Olympic Committee has definite ideas about whom the money should be spent on, it will still gladly accept donations from people thinking of turning pro. . . . Curt Roberts, little Negro second baseman with Pittsburgh earlier this year, has averaged only six home runs a season in his career. Yet, he blasted four home runs in a seven-inning game for Columbus, Ohio, the other night. . . . Macon claims the biggest ball park in all creation, 350 feet down each foul line, tapering off sharply to a 450-foot center-field wall two stories high.

—The Death of Kilroy

What American League players say of their managers in Sport magazine: Paul Richards ("Stoic, smart, tough, honest"). . . . Mike Higgins ("Patient and fair, no gambler"). . . . Lou Boudreau ("Plays more hunches than players"). . . . Marty Marion ("Pulls no punches, wants to win"). . . . Al Lopez ("Too nice a guy"). . . . Charlie Dressen ("Tough at first, but a hard worker"). . . . Bucky Harris ("Undermanages with a velvet glove"). . . . Casey Stengel ("Self-centered, dedicated genius").

Mall Call: "Referring to Dick Kazmaier, of whom you wrote recently, he was one of the judges in a Duval County beauty contest at Jacksonville Beach last month while I was there. Considering the (Navy) hours, working conditions and such 'fringe benefits' as this type of duty, is it any wonder he didn't turn pro?"—Don S. Smith, Atlanta. . . . To J. H. Wilson, Villa Rica—Sir: If you haven't detected an undercurrent of criticism of Southern Association umpiring in the Peach Sports Section this season, you have grounds to call your circulation man on the carpet. He's been delivering the wrong paper. . . . "If I am not mistaken, I can detect the fragrance of Southern pigskin in the air again. And after another season in this division (the second), I'm ready. Bring out the athletes!"—Ella Clary, Washington 7, D.C.

And why hasn't some original thinker come up with Tony Galento as a candidate for a heavyweight title round-robin? . . . Jack Cassini lost his job but he found security. The little man the Chicks didn't want caught on with a security company as a salesman. . . . They say Kilroy's passed on. Worked himself to death trying to write his name on bathroom walls with a ball-point pen. . . . Selah.

Crax Set HR Mark In Vol Demise, 12-3

Battle Barons Truce Tonight

By JESSE OUTLAR

Flexing their muscles for four circuit clouts while flailing Nashville, 12-3, Thursday night, Atlanta's Crackers set a new club homer mark and broke in twice in their final tune-up for the pennant showdown with Birmingham.

Bob Thorpe started the 17-hit bombardment of four Vol hurlers with his No. 19 homer in the second inning, the 16th Cracker homer of the year.

That equaled the old record written by the 1954 pennant edition, and Frank Sacka then set the new mark with an inside-the-park drive to left-center, which Country Brown played in a homer in the seventh.

The record lasted only long enough for Thorpe to get a swing at Cal Howe in the eighth and wallop a tremendous blast to the base of the scoreboard in left. It was his 20th and the 16th by the Crackers. Bob Montag promptly unloaded a wrong-field drive to left for his No. 23 and the third new homer mark of the night.

Only 2,603 customers watched Manager Clyde King's men roar out of a batting slump in which they had cleaned only six hits and one run in two games. It was indeed a profitable evening, for Chattanooga belted Birmingham for the fourth night in a row, and the Crackers opened up a two-and-a-half-game lead—their largest margin of the season.

From here on out it's a storybook script with the top's two teams clashing in nine of the remaining 13 games. The no-holds-barred battle gets under way at Poncey Friday at 6:00 p.m. in the front end of a doubleheader. King, hoping to shove the Barons virtually out of the race, will send Dick Grabowski (11-10) and Earl Mossor (6-2) against Arnold Portocarrero (10-9) and Cracker nemesis John Wingo (12-6). The bargain bill opens a four-game set, which winds up the Cracker home season.

The Vols, who had been surprisingly stubborn in the first three games of the series, were cooperative in the finale. They committed six errors, with ex-Cracker Country Brown making a record—equalling three in the sixth. Brown let two balls skip past him for extra bases, and also threw past first to get his name in the book as the fourth outfielder to make three miscues in one inning.

Though the game wound up no contest, it was quite a duel until Brown and the Vols collapsed in the sixth, as the Crackers snapped a 3-3 knot with four runs.

CRACKER DIARY

King Switch Pays Off; DiPrima Ends Slump

Manager Clyde King made a switch in his batting order Thursday night, benching Bill Reynolds in favor of Bob Montag. When the Vols finally brought in their first right-handed pitcher in four games, King returned Reynolds to right-field and yanked Buck Riddle. Montag shifted from the outfield to Riddle's first-base station.

Though the Crackers had been in a batting slump prior to Thursday's explosion, they have shown vast improvement in fielding. With only five errors in the last nine games, the Crackers have moved within a percentage point of the fielding lead, after being one of the last four clubs most of the season.

Frank DiPrima, a vital cog in Cracker run-making machinery, snapped a zero-for-15 slump with a sixth inning single and added a double. . . . Zip Newman, Birmingham News sports editor, is on hand to cover the Cracker-Baron series. But, after getting the results from Chattanooga Thursday, Newman remarked that he came over to interview Bobby Dodd on Tech football.

Cracker owner Earl Mann is toying with the idea of turning the distant left-field bleachers into a parking lot next season. . . . By splitting the final series with the Vols, 2-2, the Crackers wound up with a 14-8 bulge over Ernie White's club for the year. Bit ironic that Country Brown, one of the Crackers' best defensive outfielders at the peak of his career, should tie the record for errors by an outfielder in one inning in what probably will be his final game at Poncey. Brown insists he is retiring after this season.

Hoak Hit Shades Bums, 4-3

Cubs Rollick
On Freak Rap

CHICAGO, Aug. 30 (AP)—Ex-Dodger Don Hoak, who had a 11th-inning single off first base to drive in Hobbie Landrith from second with the winning run today as the last-place Chicago Cubs edged the pennant-leading Brooklyn Dodgers, 4-3.

The Dodgers dropped off the pace by two full games as the league-leading Braves and the Pittsburgh Pirates played to a 1-1 tie at Milwaukee. The game was called in the ninth because of rain and wet grounds.

Reliever Don Bessent, who had a string of 23 scoreless innings ended, gave an intentional walk to Dee Fondy to get at Hoak after Landrith singled and was sacrificed to second.

Hoak slashed the ball down the first-base line and it bounced off the base into fair territory with first sacker Gil Hodges and second baseman Jackie Robinson in hopeless pursuit while Landrith romped home.

The winner was Turk Lown, notching his eighth triumph against six defeats, in relief of lefty Jim Davis, who worked for the Cubs until he left for a pinch hitter in the seventh.

The Dodgers, in a tension-filled chase after pacesetter Milwaukee, thus broke even with the lowly Cubs in a four-game set and wound up a 14-game tour with a 9-5 record.

Eddie Eagan To Kick Off Georgia's U.S. Olympic Week

Speaks to Atlanta Group

By PAUL ATKINSON
Col. Edward Patrick Francis Eagan has always been an athlete... or one's friend. It's in the latter role he'll appear here Sept. 14.

This mid-September week has been designated "United States Olympic Team Week" throughout the state by Gov. Marvin Griffin.

Col. Eagan will speak on "We Can Never Lose the Olympics." As treasurer of the United States Olympic Committee, Eagan has a warm, personal interest in Georgia's "U. S. Olympic Team Week." For he's the guy who'll handle the cold, green cash for Georgia's athletes.

Eagan has had a colorful career... to say the least. Included among his exploits are the National AAU heavyweight crown in 1920 and later the same year, Olympic light heavyweight champion. This was a student at Yale University.

Books—and pugilism—made the good Edward Francis Patrick hit the road. This time it was Oxford University in merrie old England... on a Rhodes scholarship. And with the studies of jurisprudence and law, he found time for a little fistcuffs, annexing the heavyweight championship of the British Empire.

That was about the end of Eagan's fistie participation. But in 1946 he became chairman of the New York State Athletic Commission. It was he who changed the scoring of professional fights—working out the point system.

A $10,000 goal has been set for the month of September in Georgia. That money will be well spent... for it'll go to a winner. No less an authority than Col. Eagan says so. And he ought to know.

BASS FISHING ON UPSWING IN NORTH GEORGIA LAKES

By BILL ALLEN

With the days of the dog still hanging on, fishing picks up in many places, whether some distraught angler has finally "found" the fish and/or the method, or whether he has just traveled to a place where he's assured of a heavy tug on the sharp end of his line.

Usually, in north Georgia when the sumac crimson and the poplar yellows, bass fishing is a little better, and increases in fulfillment for the following five or six weeks. That has happened this year despite the heat.

At Lake Chatuge, small bass are hitting popping bugs at dawn and at dusk on steep banks and farther out from shore than you'd expect.

At Blue Ridge, the artificial bait fishermen have been denied heavy stringers until just recently when spoons (weighted with a half-ounce dipsey sinker a couple of feet ahead) have landed bass up to six pounds. And, now is the time to seek out one of those elusive muskies there.

The Tiger pike begins moving around now.

While many were frustrated at Lake Burton, John Templeton and Ray Barnes have used the yellow butterbean jig to great effect, just jiggling it along the deep bottom for spectacular bass catches.

At Clark Hill, where the mid-day heat is enough to sting all but the stouthearted back to ward shade, the hottest hours are paying off most to folks with deep trolling rigs and enough patience to dabble in 25-foot deep water enough to locate bass schools.

At Lake Sinclair within the past week or 10 days, an upsurge of bass-nabbing has been going on by folks who never lost faith that the bass were there.

Lately coming into prominence is the plastic worm bait, on which your reporter has caught one small bream, but others who have had more faith in it, probably, like Auburn Coach Joel Eaves, Bobby Dukes and Huelinn Camp of Villa Rica, have made fantastic catches with this simulated earthworm.

Most popular, and most effective bream bait this time of year, however, is the cricket. The squeaking hopper is good most all the time in some places, but in the pre-autumn and leaf-falling days, the cricket is king catcher.

SHORT CASTS: Above mentioned Huelinn Camp and party used his artificial Dixie pink worm for 14 bass and 17 bass on two trips to the Flying S Ranch near Villa Rica. . . . An upsurge of fishing at the "S" after these catches brought about a 47-bluegill stringer weighing 36 pounds for Bud Brown of Yorkville. Bud later added 37 bream and small bass on worms.

. . . H. D. Leggett, also of Yorkville, caught 74 bluegill on worms at the Flying S, too. . . . There is no bream limit at the lake. . . . Atlantans H. T. Barton and Ramsey McKirby went to the gulf for 300 pounds of bottom fish, using spinning rigs.

But Mrs. John (Virginia) Davis stayed at home to fish for bream in Niskey Lake, and she scored with an eight-pound, 13-ounce bass on the six-pound test line after a 15-minute battle. She won the women's season prize in the local department store fishing contest.

Aragon Gets Purse But Ref Suspended

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 30 (UP)—Welterweight fighter Art Aragon got paid off Thursday but he and referee Abe Roth still face a hearing as an aftermath of Aragon's stormy technical knock-out over little Cisco Andrade Wednesday night.

Chief Inspector Clayton Frye of the State Athletic Commission, which had impounded the Golden Boy's purse after the battle, directed the promoting Hollywood Legion Stadium to turn the amount, approximately $24,500, over to the fighter.

Roth, a veteran referee, was suspended pending an inquiry into the peremptory fashion in which he halted the fight early in the ninth round of the scheduled 10-rounder at Wrigley Field.

Cisco, outweighed seven and a half pounds—144½ to 137—was the sentimental hero, even in defeat. Aragon still faces a hearing and a possible fine for refusing to remove part of a protective medication from his eyebrows.

Roane, Scott Fire 71s In Qualifying

L. B. Roane and Ike Scott heated an otherwise damp third-day qualifying round Thursday at Meadowbrook Country Club by touring the 18-hole course with par-equaling 71s.

With rain falling most of the afternoon, the co-leaders were followed by City runner-up Jimmy Sutton, who carded a 72 and City champion Tommy Bates with a 74.

Bates had nine consecutive fours on the front nine for even par, but skied three-over on the par-35 back nine. Another qualifier Thursday was 13-year-old Hoke Almand, youngest golfer in the tourney, who registered an 88.

Out-of-town golfers Jack Lumpkin of Athens, Micky Gallagher of Augusta and Tommy Aaron of Gainesville are scheduled to tee off Friday, final qualifying day for the Meadowbrook Invitational which runs Sept. 1 through Sept. 3.

Friday's qualifiers will be shooting for medalist honors, currently held by Jimmy Lynch and Bill Paschal with 70's. Qualifying scores will count as first-round results for the 72-hole tournament.

Capital City Stages Club Championship

Capital City Country Club, which probably has more low handicap golfers than any club in this area, will stage its annual club championship over the weekend.

The championship, scheduled for 54 holes of medal play starting Saturday, will feature such outstanding players as Jack Fraser, winner of the tournament the past two years; former Southern Intercollegiate champ Sonny Ellis; former Cincinnati, Baltimore and Atlanta city champion Bob Sulzer; Charley Black Jr., ex-Georgia State Amateur titlist; Billy Black, former club champ; Carling Dinkler Jr., Bill Ireland, Gordon Clay, twice city runner-up; Harvey Hill Sr., Harvey Hill Jr., Charles Hill, Dan Y. Sage, Tom Pendergrast, Buddy Smith, Johnny Owens, Pope McIntyre, Billy Shipp, Bobby Marsden and tournament chairman Buddy Taulman.

Sulcer, Huffman, Shropshire Keep N. Fulton Outlook Bright

Mabry, Turner Line Sparklers

By CHARLIE ROBERTS

The North Fulton High Bulldogs, stripped by graduation like a palm tree in a hurricane, have no intention of finishing in the second division of the City league football race after all these years of playing "bridesmaid."

The Buckhead Bulldogs, with the finest over-all record of any Region 3-AA eleven during the four years they played in the loop, have only two starters back from last year's outfit that had a 9-1 record — losing only to city champ Northside, 20-19.

But Coach Frank Jernigan's team has a proud record to uphold, North Fulton having compiled a 32-8-0 mark for the last four seasons. Many figure they may be strong enough to be a real contender for the crown after three years of finishing second.

Louie Sulcer, a very talented running halfback, and guard Hill Huffman, a 185-pounder, are all that's left of the 1955 starting eleven. But tackle Robert Turner (195) and backs Tom Garden and John Houk all saw some action.

It is hard to conceive that the Bulldogs will be as tough with the likes of Dillon Johnston, Dallas Champion, Vance Rankin,

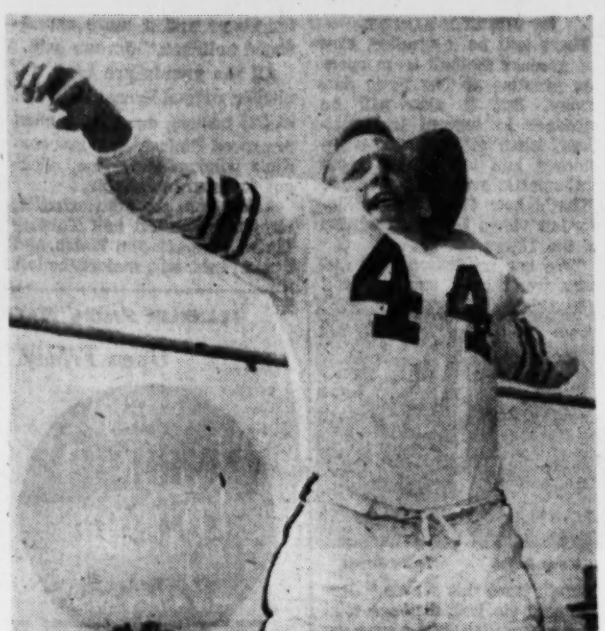

Louie Sulcer

George Minihinnett, Doug Pasley, Bob McPherson, Tommy Archibald, Robert Jones and Bobby Cruikshank missing from the cast.

Yet, while coaches Jernigan, Calvin Hartness and Jim Lofton have some misgivings about the matter, even they agree the 1956 edition has great potential and lacks only over-all team speed. It is a "maybe" club for sure.

Jernigan doesn't figure his backfield of Don Shropshire, 180-pound southpaw quarterback; Sulcer, Garden and fullback Charles Hopkins (160) will have to take any sass from any group of four to be fielded in the loop.

Joe Mabry, a 6-5, 190-pound agent who is potentially a great pass receiver, and David Bates (175) will open at end. Turner will be an all-the-way boy at tackle.

James Majors (175) gets the offensive call at the other side, and John Morris (190) looks best on defense. Huffman and David Hunter, 15 pounds lighter at 170, will be at guard. Bill Jackson (165) gets the call at center.

Shropshire probably will be the best left-handed passer to show here in years. Mabry, Hunter, Turner and Huffman should anchor the line. The team in deep-end at guard where Bobby Maxey (165) and John Majors (155) — twin brother of tackle James — are also solid defenders.

Lookouts Trounce Barons

Sweep 4-Game Series, 11-5

By the Associated Press

Chattanooga continued its mastery of Birmingham Thursday, cracking out 18 hits off four pitchers for an 11-5 victory and a sweep of the four-game series. Bruce Barnes and Miff Davidson had four hits apiece to back up the nifty relief pitching of winner Bob Schultz.

Memphis clubbed New Orleans, 6-1, for the Chicks' 17th victory in 20 starts with the Pelicans. Mobile defeated Montgomery, 5-3, in the first game of a double-header, and clobbered the Rebels, 18-7, in the finale.

Alex Gorday, Lookout starter, was staked to a 7-1 lead after two innings against Birmingham but couldn't stand prosperity. A four-run second-inning blast reared Gorday in favor of Schultz, and the veteran left-hander stifled the pennant-conscious Barons the last seven innings.

—'PUT ME DOWN FOR A FIVE'— Jones' Sportsmanship Cost Him 1925 Open

(Copyright 1956 by The New York Times Co.)
NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—Bob Jones drove into the rough on the sixteenth hole of the final round of the 1925 United States Open championship at Worcester. The then 23-year-old golfer from Georgia was in a ding-dong contest with Willie Macfarlane for the title. Strokes were much too precious to be wasted.

The Emperor Jones — his formal crowning did not take place until later in his career — stepped cautiously into the rough and addressed the ball. Suddenly he backed away as though he'd seen a snake. Then he stepped up confidently and hit a beauty toward the hole. When the apple-cheeked youngster from Atlanta had completed his chores on the green, the official scorer went through the usual formality of checking the score.

BOBBY JONES

"A four, Mr. Jones?" asked the scorer.

"No," said Bob. "Put me down for a five. The ball turned over as I addressed it."

The only person in the world who was aware that the ball had turned over was Robert Tyre Jones. No one else had seen it — playing partners, caddies, officials, newspapermen or spectators.

The call of that barely discernible stroke was a costly one. It plunged the young amateur into a tie with Macfarlane for the Open crown at 291. They tied again in the first play-off with 75's, but Willie won the second one, 72 to 73. If the Emperor Jones had chosen to ignore that call, he'd be off by himself as the only five-time winner of the Open. As it is, he's tied with Willie Anderson and Ben Hogan at four titles each.

Yet in a way Bob still is off in a class by himself. Gene Sarazen described the incident as "the greatest display of sportsmanship I've ever witnessed." Others raved on in a similar vein. Jones is much too gracious ever to disagree. His private reactions were highly significant, however.

"I deserve no special praise or credit," he said in his gentle drawl. "What's so unusual about what I did? Isn't that the way golf is supposed to be played?"

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 30 (UP)—The three top-seeded Americans and the first-seeded foreigner gained quarter-final victories today in the U.S. Girls Lawn Tennis Championship at the Philadelphia Cricket Club.

Mimi Arnold of Redwood City, Calif., the first-seeded American, was the only one of the victors who was extended to three sets.

Tournament officials figure if there'll be an upset in the first round, Morris is the youngster to do it.

Techs Await Elward Verdict; Kidney Ailment Slows Volkert

Jackets Pose For Pictures

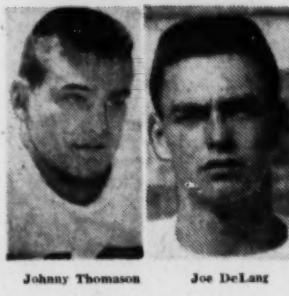

By AL THOMY

Not a block has been blocked and not a tackle has been tackled, and yet Georgia Tech's Engineers find an active hospital roll call as they report for pictures and physical examinations Friday prior to Saturday's first session with the taskmaster.

This is a day for frolic, a day for looking pretty for the photographers and showing them how you can pass, run and fall on fumbles. But outside of this, Tech coaches are somewhat concerned over the condition of a young sophomore who is considered one of the key men of '56, center Eddie Elward.

"There's a possibility he might not get to play any football this year," Head Coach Bobby Dodd said Thursday. "We won't know for a day or two, or until we get the doctor's report. Elward is a key man in our plans. We had expected him to play behind starter (Don) Stevenson like Stevenson played behind Jimmy Morris last year. If we lose Elward, we'll be hurting."

"If that does happen, we may be forced to call on Buck Wiley and Dick Beard, both of whom have graduated and are working on their Master's. However, they have another year of eligibility and they say they'll play if we need them. The loss of Elward surely would hurt. He's the only center on the squad who can get the ball back properly on punts."

Johnny Thomson Joe DeLanz

Tech finds its question mark right smack in the middle of its line. First, there's Elward, and then there's the problem of replacing all-America Franklin Brooks at right guard. Rugged Jimmy Johnson, an experienced linebacker, has been thrown into the gap, with Waldo Dodd behind him. A converted quarterback, Dave Robinson and sophomore Foster Watkins are lined up behind Stevenson.

There's another bit of dark news in the case of George Volkert, Tech's candidate for all-America halfback honors. Volkert is suffering from a slight kidney infection and won't be ready for full-scale action for a week or 10 days. The kidney ailment is a carry-over from an injury in '55.

"This will slow George down for a few days, but we think he will be ready for the first game with Kentucky," said Dodd.

The Engineer coaching staff is tinkering with only one change at this time. They are mulling moving Slim Fulcher, sophomore guard and brother of graduated Bill Fulcher, from guard to center to strengthen the middle.

Dodd is not underrating Kentucky in the nationally televised opener at Lexington.

"In a way, we are expecting just as tough a game against Kentucky as we had last year against Miami," he said. "They didn't lose many boys. In fact, Kentucky is capable of whipping anyone in the Southeastern Conference. We're going to have to play a good game to win it."

Including some 20-25 non-scholarship boys, Tech coaches will greet approximately 160 players on Saturday morning at 9. Two practice sessions are scheduled a day for about 10 days, at which time the varsity will work out once a day.

The Engineers greet practically the same team that compiled an 8-1-1 season in '55. Only three faces from that club are missing, Brooks, Fulcher and reserve end Danny Bagwell.

Added to the varsity roster this season are fullback Johnny Thomson, son of old Techster Stumpy, and halfback Joe DeLanz, both of whom boinked in '55.

Otherwise, the team's the same, the coaches are the same, and the experts are predicting the same kind of a season.

"I've gotten used to the predictions," said Dodd. "They've picked us on top for so many years. I honestly believe it hurts your team a little. You can't upset anyone, because you're always the favorite. I don't think (quarterback Wade) Mitchell and Volkert ever played as underdogs, except against Notre Dame."

Bisher Picks SEC's 'Big Four' In Yearbook

Georgia Tech, Ole Miss, Auburn and Tennessee "complete a bracket of the favored four" in the Southeastern Conference, Constitution sports Editor Furman Bisher predicts in True Magazine's football yearbook now on the newsstands.

However, Bisher says that SEC's "new state of shifting strength, predictions are rendered highly perilous" and past the top four "you're flying blind."

Bisher surveys the entire southland and sees Maryland, with a push from Clemson and Duke, the top team in an exciting Atlantic Coast Conference; and George Washington challenging West Virginia's reign in the South-east.

Jordan Sees Strong Tiger Team, But Final Record May Be Weaker

By MICKEY LOGUE

There will be a smaller, slower, greener football team opening practice at The Plain Saturday. But it also will be stronger in several key positions, laden with talented sophomores and one of the most enthusiastic ever to hit Auburn.

That's how Head Coach Shug Jordan views his sixth edition of the Tigers.

"We see no reason why Auburn won't have another good ter shape and a more experienced halfback," Jordan said.

All the guards are back, including rugged Ernest Danjean, at 223 pounds, one of the most improved Plainsmen at last season's windup. Here, too, stick-out sophs are available.

to right halfback switch, are the key backs, Jordan said.

There are others, though, like right halfback Billy Kitchens of Macon and Jimmy Lester of Covington. And good men stand ready to fill the line gaps.

Fourteen lettermen, 36 sophs, 14 juniors and 11 seniors will answer the first call Saturday at 9 a.m. Two-day drills are slated for the first week.

Bulldogs Show First Reel Today of 'New Faces of 1956'

Director Butts Accents Youth

By LARRY FOX

Constitution Sports Writer
ATHENS, Aug. 30—They're having a picture show here Friday. The title: New Faces of 1956. Produced and directed by J. Wallace Butts.

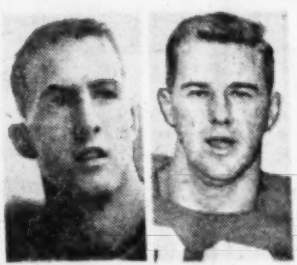

True, there will be some familiar faces in the cast but the mob of characters facing cameras for the first time in varsity suits will form almost half of the number—22 of 45 registered in the pre-season game book.

These fresh faces must be more than spring-time flowers, too. Butts and Georgia are counting on them to provide the power down the stretch when the final six games show Miami, Kentucky, Alabama, Florida, Auburn and Georgia Tech.

"Some of our best players are sophomores," Butts has said. "We were not able to get them ready to play in only 20 days of spring practice, so most of them will not be ready for Vanderbilt Sept. 22. We do expect them to play by the middle of the season."

Butts has followed, not by choice of course, the old Hollywood custom of picking unknowns for the glamour roles, in the backfield. Here the sophomores abound.

It is only necessary to point out that the "old man" at halfbacks, the returning regulars, are J. B. Davis and Jimmy Orr. They are juniors, neither played as fresh men and their surprisingly good sophomore seasons were their only exposure to fire. Backing Davis at left half are sophomores Gene Littleton, George Whitten and Mitchell Shellnut, with senior Wendell Tarleton a good bet to challenge for first-string recognition.

J. B. Davis Jimmy Orr

Backing Orr on the right are sophomores Marion Bush, Charlie Barnes and Carl Manning. Junior Henry Dukes, if the effects of his appendectomy have worn off, and senior Charlie Harris could challenge.

The fullbacks are more mature. Knox Culpepper, the captain, is a senior and Wilbur Lofton is a fairly experienced junior. But they, too, will be pressed by eager newcomers. Theron Sapp, Cicero Lucas and Bill Strumke.

Summing the backfield, you have 13 sophomores among 23 candidates.

The line has that real look of age. The ends, Laneair Roberts and Roy Wilkins, are four-year standouts, but back of them there is a full parcel of youth. The tackles are seniors, too, John Luck and Pud Mosteller, but back of their ailing knees you again note fuzzy cheeks. The guards are all new, the centers middle-aged with veteran Jimmy Brown plus now eligible again Harold Deen Cook.

But let's jot down the new names up front, for they'll be getting plenty of fine reviews and screen credits in this production.

These are all sophomores, who before this season is far gone will be earning their training table fare.

Picture Day Set Today for Tech, Georgia

Picture day at Georgia will start at 2 p.m. Friday. At Tech, it will be 9 a.m. with physical exams in the afternoon.

Practice plans call for two-a-day at both schools starting Saturday for a week or 10 days. Georgia expects to drill at 7 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. Tech plans to go off at 8:30 a.m. and 5 p.m. Classes will be no problem at either school since they do not start until after opening game, Sept. 22, in both cases.

Georgia opens at Vanderbilt in a night game, Tech at Kentucky in an afternoon nationally televised contest—FOX.

Tag Team Go Set Tonight

Cyclone Anaya, who roared onto the Atlanta wrestling scene last week, returns tonight. His opponent will be the Demon, Jack O'Brien.

While this clash will draw much attention in the Municipal Auditorium, the feature go has Art Nelson and Eddie Gossett meeting Fred Blassie and the Zebra Kid in an Australian tag team match. And this one is for the world tag team title and trophy.

Nelson and Gossett wrestled the title from the grasp of the McIntyre Brothers just last Friday. So the victors can be termed "fighting" kingpins.

Their joust with Blassie and the Zebra Kid is over the 60-minute time limit or one-fall route.

ASSISTANT'S CHILD KISSES SENATOR GOODYBY
Mrs. George beams as Joanne Carlton Busses Husband

Sen. and Mrs. George Sail for Europe Today

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30—A somber Sen. George, piloted by an effervescent "Miss Lucy," left Washington today for New York where they are to sail tomorrow for London aboard the liner United States.

He will work as President Eisenhower's personal representative to NATO and she will have "a grand time."

It is Mrs. George's first trip to Europe and she is looking forward to it with the expectation of a schoolgirl from south Georgia on a first visit to Atlanta. The Georges carried only five pieces of luggage, two for the senator and three for Mrs. George, all light tan bags given them by Georgia admirers.

As the Georges departed from Washington they totaled up 32 farewell parties in which she had actively and he had passively participated.

"We are counting on seeing some New York friends this afternoon and some more this evening," Mrs. George said. "It could well be that the number of farewells will total 40 by the time we board the United States."

The Georges are to spend a week in London before proceeding to Paris. In London the senator will meet with British officials on business, giving Mrs. George plenty of time to "do the town." She merely expects London to be a warmup for her Paris stay where she will be hosted by Mme. Henri Bonnet, wife of the longtime French ambassador to the United States.

The Georges travel gear includes a box of games and most important a book providing for a ready translation of American into foreign money.

The gamebook includes a gin rummy deck and scorecard but Mrs. George said she long ago gave up gin rummy with "Mr. George."

"He always wanted a card I was using."

Somehow this combination—obviously intended to fuse into a moving portrayal of a child's faith—fails to come off.

The movie has all the ingredients, including fine Eastman color and the unusual setting of London's Petticoat Lane. But producer Carol Reed's final result is far below earlier triumphs like his "Third Man" and "Fallen Idol."

An engaging new child star, Jonathan Ashmore, plays the youngster who thinks a baby goat with a missing horn is the magic unicorn on which wishes can be made.

Reviewer's rating: Unusual British comedy-drama. Family classification.

MARJORY SMITH.

Randolph Scott's latest western, "Seven Men From Now," is now showing at the Paramount theater along with a special Warner Bros. short subject, "24 Hour Alert," which features Jack Webb.

Scott, one of the most durable cowboys on the screen, plays the part of a former sheriff who is out to kill seven men for the honor of his woman. With seven fugitives listed, this western emerges as a fairly exciting man-hunt. Gail Russell, Lee Marvin and Walter Reed assist in telling the story.

The special short subject offers some never-before-filmed scenes of the latest jet aircraft and bombers in mile-high maneuvers.

Novelty-Comic Revue Scores Here

The show at the Paradise Room starts off fast with a bang-up musical act and it closes even faster with one of the best comedy-novelty acts ever offered in the Henry Grady's smart club.

Alan Marlo, harmonica virtuoso, opens the revue with three groups of songs which range from the classics to the patriotic service melodies and a rousing interpretation of "Dixie." Alan is currently making his third appearance at the Grady. He has always been a favorite here.

Ike Backs GOP Women In Drive To Get Out Vote

(Copyright 1956 by The New York Times Co.)
WASHINGTON, Aug. 30—President Eisenhower gave his support today to a Republican get-out-the-vote campaign.

Miss Bertha Adkins, director of women's activities for the Republican National Committee, reported after a White House visit that the President was "tremendously concerned" about recent declines in the number of registered voters around the country. She announced his endorsement of a "registration roll call" planned by the GOP women to qualify more voters before election day.

"We know that a big vote means a Republican victory," Miss Adkins said.

PRIME SPOTS AT BALL

The Republican committee today invited its women workers in the 48 states to join in a registration-raising contest. The six women whose districts show the biggest registration increases this fall will get good seats at next January's presidential inaugural parade and ball—unless, presumably, the Democrats happen to win.

James C. Hagerty, the President's press secretary, said Eisenhower believes getting qualified voters registered is the "fundamental political job to be done at this time."

Miss Adkins' was the first entirely political appointment scheduled by the President since his return from California this week. There were other political glimmers at the White House during the day.

Hagerty said nothing definite, but a smile in answer to a reporter's question left the impression that the President would make his first major speech of the 1956 campaign on or about Sept. 15.

BIRTHDAY CELEBRATION

There was also a hint that some kind of political celebration may be arranged for Eisenhower's birthday on Oct. 14. He will be 66 years old.

Tomorrow's presidential visitors will include Sen. Case, New Jersey Republican who was an early Eisenhower booster in 1952, and former deputy defense secretary Robert B. Anderson. Anderson is a Texas Democrat who has said he will be campaigning hard for Eisenhower this fall.

For her appointment today Miss Adkins wore what may be the year's most spectacular political advertisement, stockings that have "I Like Ike" knitted on them. But the President, she said afterward, did not notice the stockings.

Cyprus Bullets Wound Wives of 2 Tommies

NICOSIA, Cyprus, Aug. 30 (AP)—Wives of two British army sergeants were wounded by bullets in a busy Nicosia street today.

They were walking in the fashionable area where most British servicemen live when a cyclist opened fire on an air force man and his wife. The airman drew his service revolver and fired at the fleeing cyclist.

A police communique said some of the bullets struck the two British women, wounding them in the arms.

While British families came under attack in Nicosia, the extremist EOKA organization struck in the village of Tsadha, near Paphos. Masked men invaded a coffee shop, singled out a Greek Cypriot, and seriously wounded him.

EOKA's 11-day truce after 16 months of gun and bomb tactics ended Monday midnight. In rapid succession there followed two bombings with British servicemen as targets. A British major was wounded Wednesday as he stood on the steps of a movie theater in downtown Nicosia. A British sentry at a police headquarters five miles from Nicosia was shot and wounded.

Tonight a tank landing craft in Famagusta Harbor was damaged by an explosion blamed on a mine apparently placed by a frogman.

The blast was interpreted as perhaps the first act by Cypriots against the British decision to let

Have a wonderful weekend!

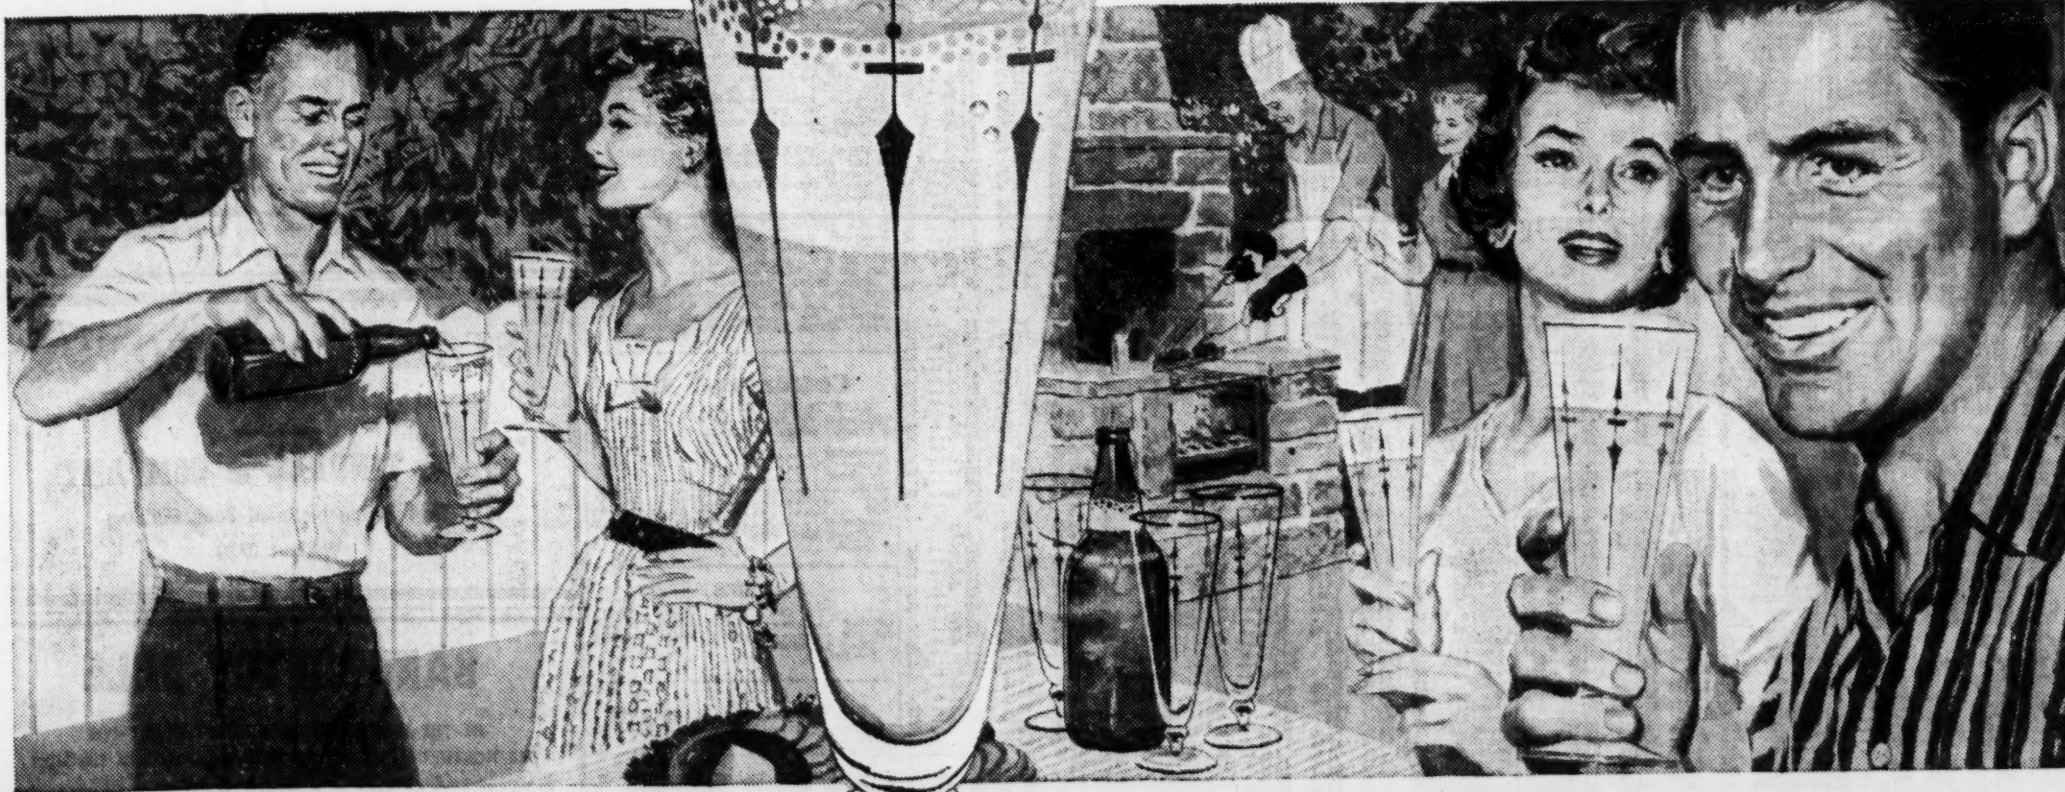

Enjoy beer that stays

Cool 93% longer

in New Quart Bottles you don't return

When planning for your weekend fun—choose your favorite beer and ale in new Party-Size Quart Bottles. They pamper the taste . . . stay colder far longer . . . and each big bottle serves five full glasses.

An independent laboratory made the tests—discovered that beer (and ale) in new quart bottles stays cold nearly twice as long as in 12-ounce cans. This is especially important to remember when you're serving guests—when variations in consumption time are bound to occur. The big bottle keeps beer within the just-right 40- to 50-degree temperature range far longer than when each person has a separate small container.

Moreover, the Party-Size Quart Bottle pampers the flavor-peak of fine beers and ales. Let your own taste prove this. Just let your favorite beer or ale aerate by bubbling freely down the neck of the bottle, over the bottle's clean lip, straight into a glass. Let it form its natural head. The first refreshing sip tells you how important a bottle is to beer's protection . . . how important the neck of a bottle is to beer's flavor. Get new Party-Size Quart Bottles next time you shop. They're far more convenient.

Oils, Chemicals Weak; Only Aircrafts Steady

NEW YORK, Aug. 30 (AP)—The stock market beat its biggest retreat in more than a week today in its fourth straight decline. Oils, chemicals and metals were weak, with numerous losses of from 1 to more than 3 points. Other divisions joined the downturn as only aircrafts managed to hold steady.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks dropped $1.80 to $181.10—its biggest loss since a decline of $2.10 on Aug. 21. Based on the average, the set-back clipped an estimated 24 billion dollars from the quoted value of all stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange.

Activity picked up substantially from the recent dull sessions. Trading totaled 2,050,000 shares, compared with yesterday's 1,530,000 shares.

The market was lower throughout although there was some improvement just before the close. Brokers felt that much of today's selling was prompted by a combination of technical factors and a worsening of the international news, particularly in the Middle East. They said traders normally lighten their holdings before the three-day Labor Day weekend and the approaching religious holidays.

The arrival of French troops in Cyprus and other Suez developments were reported to have accentuated this trend among short-term investors.

The industrial component of the AP average fell $2.70, rails $2 and utilities 30 cents.

South American Gold & Platinum was the day's most active stock, off 1/2 at 9 1/2 on 41,300 shares. Of that total, 37,700 shares moved in one block in the early afternoon. Gulf oil came next, off 3/4 at 118 on 32,800 shares. Curtiss-Wright was unchanged at 39 1/2 on 20,700 shares.

Bucking the trend were Panhandle Eastern Pipeline, up 2, and Freeport Sulphur, up 1 1/2. Motors held their losses to fractions following a report from the National Automobile Dealers Assn. that the auto inventory picture had improved in recent years.

The American Stock Exchange was lower with volume of 920,000 shares compared with yesterday's 860,000 shares.

Corporate bonds were lower and U. S. Government issues were irregular.

Fulton Gives State Pledge Of Road Aid

Ring Around City To Run 65 Miles

By CHARLES MOORE

Fulton County has pledged full cooperation with the State Highway Dept. in the construction of perimeter roads around the City of Atlanta that will cost more than $32 million.

A. T. McDonald, director of the Fulton County Public Works Department, said Thursday the county has offered to pay planning costs for the four-lane, limited access highways that will route traffic around the metropolitan area.

Tentative plans of the State Highway Dept. call for a total of some 65 miles of these "belt" highways, running 23 miles in Fulton, 27 in DeKalb, 12 in Cobb and 3 miles in Clayton County.

$32 MILLION

At a minimum of $500,000 a mile, the total cost will exceed $32 million.

McDonald said the county this week pledged "100 per cent co-operation" to speed the locating of these projects.

With decisions reached on where the highways will be located, the county can begin work on securing rights-of-way or will be in a position to prevent their over-development, McDonald said.

"It would save the county thousands of dollars in rights-of-way costs if we could determine the locations of the perimeter roads now," he commented.

ASSURANCE

The State Highway Dept., McDonald said, "has given us assurance that they will establish the general locations as quickly as possible. And they're working on it now."

McDonald said securing rights-of-way is the most difficult task in building a highway, "a lot harder than the construction work." He said rights-of-way must be obtained from approximately 400 persons for the average 10-mile stretch of highway.

He predicted the construction of the perimeter roads will move in "spurts" and will not be completed for at least seven years. If construction is pushed at top speed.

Hayes Heads Junior League Speech School

Dr. Claude S. Hayes has been named acting president of the Junior League School for Speech Correction. He will continue to serve as director of education, a position he has held since September, 1954.

He will succeed Mrs. Edwin McCarty who has been president four years. Her retirement will become effective Sept. 1.

Mrs. McCarty was named Woman of the Year in Education

Dr. Hayes Mrs. McCarty

In 1956 in recognition for her work with the school.

Dr. Hayes holds a doctor of philosophy degree in auditory and speech pathology from Northwestern University. Before coming to Atlanta in 1954, he served as chief supervisor of the Army Audiology and Speech Correction Center at Walter Reed Medical Center in the nation's capital.

Four new additions to the staff of the school, which is located at 2020 Peachtree road, NW, have been announced by Mrs. McCarty.

They include Dr. Warren J. Clark, coordinator of the school's speech correction program; Miss Mary E. Numbers, visiting supervisor; Miss Marigene Mulligan and Miss Ann Coryell.

Mrs. McCarty said the school served 2,200 children and adults last year, but that total probably will be raised to 2,800 because of the staff additions.

Four speech and hearing specialists will take part in a new graduate program in speech and audiology being offered by the Junior League Speech School in cooperation with Emory University, Mrs. McCarty said.

They are Dr. Wendell Johnson, professor of speech pathology and psychology at the University of Iowa; Dr. Herbert Koepf Baker, former director of the Cleft Palate Training Center at the University of Illinois; Miss Mildred McGinnis, director of the speech clinic at the Central Institute for the Deaf at Washington University; and Dr. G. Paul Moore, associate professor of speech re-education at Northwestern University.

THE SUBURBAN LOOK

Cashmere Sweaters Get Ribs and New Length for Sleeves

By MARY GRAY ANDERSON

It is said that nature was kind to the Kashmir goat, and gave him the finest natural coat known to man or beast. To complete this statement, one must add that the Kashmir goat is kind to us, and has given us the most luxurious sweaters to be had.

The Kashmir goat lives in the high plateaus of inner Asia. He has never been successfully transplanted to any other spot on the globe. The fleece of this animal, called cashmere, is as fluffy as a cloud and as light as a feather.

The story is told that the Squire of Weald Hall spent many thousands of pounds to learn that he could not domesticate the Kashmir goat of inner Asia with commercial success in England. That was in 1823, and he gave the entire herd he imported to King George IV.

The descendants of that herd have been favorites among the exhibits in the Great Park of Windsor Castle, but they grow no fleecy coats. Even a Kashmir goat living in his native mountains produces only four ounces of heavenly fleece per year.

Up until 150 years ago only royalty could wear cashmere. It ranked with gems as among the most precious gifts of nature, fit only for kings and queens.

But today, cashmere coats, suits, dresses and sweaters are available to every woman. All can enjoy its soft, long-wearing qualities and its luxurious beauty.

Another important feature of cashmere fleece is that it has a high insulation value, three times that of fine wool, ounce for ounce. Therefore it tends to keep out heat as well as cold, making cashmere sweaters ideal for year-round wear.

Like all other sweaters today, cashmeres are getting away from the purely classic look. Some are being given evening elegance with delicate embroidery, and scooped-out necklines.

One of the features of this season's cashmeres is a switch to three-quarter sleeves on many. And many of them are made in colors to match skirts, and fashioned with V necks, and roll collars and cuffs to give a new costume look.

Since rib sweaters have been given the big fashion nod this year, cashmeres, too, are ribbed all over from collar to waist, or plain knit sweaters are given rib sleeves or collar.

Shown are some of the new 1956 cashmere sweaters that were made of the fleece of the Kashmir goat of Asia, and available to every woman.

With Teens as Champs, Success Almost Certain

By BETTY CARROLLTON

When teen-agers champion a cause—any cause—its success is almost certain.

One of the most enthusiastic groups to support any program is the Perkerson Park Teen Club, and one of the club's pet projects is promotion of the annual Georgia Youth Workshop.

Perkerson teen-agers believe "wholeheartedly" in the workshop, a yearly convocation sponsored by the Georgia Recreation Society to revive teenage recreation programs.

FIRST AWARD
For efforts in behalf of the workshop, the Perkerson Park Teen Club has won the Georgia Recreation Society Award, first presentation of its kind to be made.

The Atlanta young people feel their time and efforts have paid off in more ways than one.

"We feel the workshop deserves the unequalled support of every teen-ager in the state," commented Maureen Vickers, public relations chairman of the Perkerson Park Teen Club. "You learn to be good leaders while having fun. It's the best thing that's happened to the state's recreation program."

The Perkerson young people spread the news of the workshop by word of mouth, through newspapers, radio and television programs, and with posters they made to spotlight the meeting.

"We put posters in churches, drug stores, community centers, and every other place where teen-agers might gather to see them," Maureen recalled. "The posters were all made by club members. We tried to keep them simple, easy-to-read, yet eye-catching."

Maureen added that the best promotion of the workshop came from delegates who had attended it in the past. "They're always talking about the wonderful experience of being there," she said.

For two years a workshop delegate, Maureen is probably its proudest booster.

"PROBLEM SWAPPING"

She pointed out that the value of such a program lies in the exchange of ideas and "problem-swapping" that comes to the fore during sessions.

"We discuss frankly the problems of any and all teen clubs," she said. "Nearly always someone comes up with a solution, or at least a suggestion."

New ideas are brought back to clubs by workshop delegates. "Putting the ideas to work and ironing out problems usually keep us on our toes until the workshop convenes the next year," Maureen said.

RESEARCH

Members of the Perkerson Park club have evidently done quite a bit of research on the workshop, its beginning and its purpose. They pointed out, for instance, that:

The Georgia Youth Workshop was the first of its kind organized in the United States.

Since its founding in 1944 by Ed Davidson, such workshops have been organized in numerous other states.

Maureen, who is editor of "Teen Talk," the Perkerson Park club's publication, said the group is "very proud" of the award.

"But," she added, "our aim in promoting the workshop has not been just to win the award. We want to place in the minds of the public a better attitude toward teen-agers."

"We think the best way to do this is to put before their eyes and ears evidence of teen-agers' worthwhile, constructive activities."

"The Georgia Youth Workshop is some of the best evidence."

Alumni Hep to Alumna...nae, Too

By AGNES GAINES

The curious student was asking the professor about the word "alumnus."

"What is the difference between alumni and alumnae?" the student queried. "I'm always getting them mixed and confused with each other. I'd like to learn once and for all just what is what and which is which!"

The professor reached behind him on the shelf and came out with a big, blue volume.

DICTIONARY

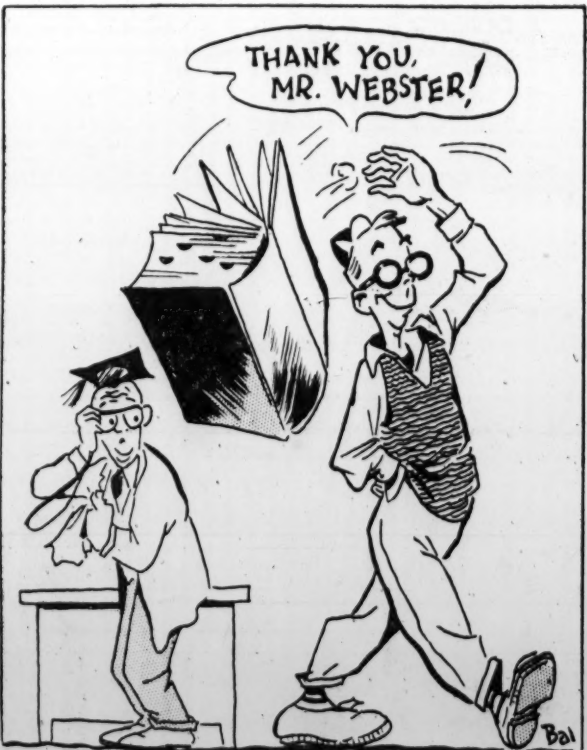

"I think the dictionary will help straighten it out for you," the professor answered wearily. He had heard this question and other similar ones so often, he was used to it by now. With a sigh he recalled how at first he had been so annoyed when students asked these questions that seemed to him so obvious.

The student was thumbing through the pages of the dictionary.

"Al—Al—Ah, here it is. Alumnus. Hmmm. Says here that an alumnus is a 'member of a school or college class that has been graduated.'"

"Look in the fine print at the first of it," instructed the professor. "You'll find there the masculine and feminine forms of it."

Peering closer at the book and squinting just a little the student read: "Masculine plural—ni; feminine plural—nae. Well, sounds simple. And I suppose that, pertaining to so-

"That's right," answered the professor a bit triumphantly as the light began to dawn on the confused student. "And the singular form for one girl graduate is alumna. Now, what would you say that a mixed group would be called?"

After thinking for a minute, the student answered, "Well, I guess it would be the masculine word, alumni."

"Right again!" The professor leaned back in his chair and prepared to elaborate on the subject. "But you can't just guess about these things. You've got to know—positively, absolutely and without any doubt that you're right."

"YESSIR, I SEE"

"Furthermore," the professor continued, "in the mixed groups, although the group as a whole is referred to by the masculine form, the separate members are addressed as to their sex."

"Well, yessir, I see now," the student, greatly enlightened, replied. "I guess I just needed to think about it, really. It's much clearer now. I don't think I'll make that mistake in the future."

And with that the student trudged out, leaving the professor behind seriously doubting his last words, but willing to give the student another chance.

A Teen-Ager Lost in Europe

People have been drummed out of the League of Women Voters for less than this, but I can't help it, I have to like the people I vote for.

In this election year it behooves all of us, I know, to examine with care the records of candidates, to weigh point by point their views on issues, to study their qualifications. And no woman is worthy of the right to cast her hard-won ballot if she travels on such frail stuff as her intuition when she picks a candidate. You might as well be guided on questions of local, state and national importance by the old Eastern system of looking for signs and portents in chicken entrails, as to vote for a man because he has a pretty voice or because he reminds you of the boy who sent you that valentine in the fourth grade.

And yet, how subject we are to little personal quirks, to faint, hardly recognizable prejudices! A candidate's name might have unpleasant connotations for you. (My father never could trust President Hoover because a man named Hoover once sold him some worthless oil stock.) If a man has an attractive platform appearance he is likely to pick up voters where a worthy candidate with less poise might fall.

Most of us would swear that hand-shaking, baby-kissing campaigning is old fashioned and leaves us unmoved. But I don't know, there's nothing that beats the personal touch.

I already knew that Sen. Russell was a commendable gentleman and a splendid senator. His record of public service has always been admirable, but the thing that filled me with a greater and warmer surge of respect for the senator was no mighty international issue. It was his immediate response to the need of some friends of mine.

A couple I know lost touch with their teen-age daughter who is traveling in Europe. The last word they had from her was that her money had run out and she needed some immediately. The funds they had cabled her had not been properly forwarded, officials at the various travel agencies displayed a marked ennui to phone calls and cabled inquiries. Days passed and the girl did not pick up the money they sent or receive any of their urgent messages to phone home.

The American Embassy, which they eventually called, couldn't be expected to get steamed up over one mislaid young American among the thousands who are touring France this summer.

And yet what are distraught parents to do? The situation at Suez was to them as nothing, compared to whether their child was hungry, ill or in trouble in a foreign land.

So they called Sen. Russell at Windsor.

Sen. Russell has had many such calls. He knows that dozens of Americans annually lose somebody in Europe and it's nearly always a temporary loss. He knows the tremendous demands made on the American Embassy in Paris. When it comes to that he's a fairly busy man himself.

And yet he considered the matter of a little Georgia girl, far from home and perhaps homesick and broke, well worth his immediate attention. Of course, he knew officials who could be helpful. Certainly he would ask their assistance. He was patient, he was reassuring, he was concerned.

There may be more admirable traits in a public official, but for the moment I can't think of any. He hasn't found the young traveler yet, but I bet he will.

Easy Rules To Maintain Normal Weight

By IDA JEAN KAIN

Being a dietitian for such a large and diversified family of overweights keeps me ever on the alert for first-hand experiences in dealing with avoirdupois. Today's story is really exciting!

Our model is a young woman who has a natural tendency toward overweight, yet manages to keep her weight under control by adhering to three rules: eating breakfast, restricting liquids, and weighing daily.

At 14 years of age she weighed 190 solid pounds. She has an exceptionally large frame and big bones and finds she looks and feels her best at 150 pounds, which is top normal weight for her height of 5'5". Here is her advice on weight control.

"When I eat breakfast, including two eggs, I can keep the pounds under control. A good breakfast helps to burn up body fat, gives me normal energy and lets me go briskly about my work. If I fail to eat breakfast because of lack of time, I feel tired and find myself nibbling in the middle of the morning almost without knowing it."

Her weight-control breakfast consists of a sliced orange or a half grapefruit, two soft boiled or poached eggs, one thin slice of toast, un buttered, and clear coffee. That furnishes 280 fast-burning calories. The eggs provide protein which whips up the metabolism. Furthermore, protein stimulates the general efficiency of the body, furnishes material needed for repair work, and builds vigor and stamina.

While reducing the 40 excess pounds, our overweight got in the habit of not drinking any liquid with the meal. When she had coffee, she drank it after she had finished eating. Excess liquid with meals stretches the size of the stomach. With liquid restricted, the stomach remains the size of the meal. She finds it helpful to continue to follow that plan. She drinks a glass of buttermilk or skim milk in the late afternoon and another before retiring, rather than with the meal. She drinks plenty of water between meals, but does not even sip water with meals.

THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION, Friday, August 31, 1956 • 27

And, finally, she weighs every morning of her life. When the scales go up two pounds, she starts to take off that two pounds. It's a simple matter to take off two pounds. . . . Then they can't grow to 22.

COLLEGE QUEEN ADDS TO SCRAPBOOK
Miss Rhalda Lefkoff Has New Title

Mother, Bible Symbols Of This Queen's Luck

By HARRIETTE SCHREIBER

The reigning queen of Georgia coeds, Rhalda Lefkoff, a petite brunette beauty, counts her mother and a Bible as her good luck charms.

Rhalda, 18-year-old University of Georgia coed, was chosen by the National College Queen contest committee on the basis of both beauty and intelligence to represent Georgia in the fourth National College Queen grand finals in Asbury Park, N.J. She leaves for New Jersey Sept. 7 with the contest to be held on Sept. 8 and 9.

She'll take with her the Bible she got when she was confirmed at Sunday school, which goes with Rhalda to all beauty contests.

NOTHING NEW

Beauty titles are nothing new to this Atlanta miss, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lefkoff. She is the reigning "Miss Georgia Chick" and was one of six finalists for "Miss Southern Chick" in the recent contest.

She was Alpha Epsilon Pi Fraternity's beauty sponsor at the university last year, representing the group in all the beauty contests on the campus, and was a semifinalist in the "Miss Dixie" contest.

But her biggest thrill came in the 1956 "Miss Atlanta" pageant when she walked off with first prize in the talent division with a dramatic monologue of an original script. Although she was second runner-up in the overall contest, "The talent trophy just meant the most to me," she explained.

ANGEL FLIGHT

Rhalda's activities are not limited to beauty contests, though. As a freshman at the university she served as president of her dorm, Center Myers; she was a member of Angel Flight and was a member of the Student Government Cabinet.

From her lead in the senior play at Grady High, Rhalda decided that a drama career was definitely for her.

"I'd like to do some good TV drama, or really any drama," she said, "but I just can't do comedy—I always laugh."

Rhalda was selected for the National College queen contest on the basis of a general examination, a character and activity reference from university

Will Sell His Jekyll Leases For Cost, Sen. Dykes Says

State Sen. James M. Dykes of Cochran said Thursday he would relinquish his leases on Jekyll Island to anyone who would pay him $182,071—the amount he says he has invested in his various enterprises on the state-owned island.

Dykes made his offer in a letter to the Jekyll Island Authority. Later, he told a reporter, "There's been such a stink about the place, if I can get my money out of it, I'll get out."

In his letter, Dykes said he and his firm, Jekyll Island Hotel Corp., are willing "to give the authority permission to transfer all of our leases" to anyone "willing to reimburse us for our actual investment."

SAME RENTAL

Such a party, he said, also must "guarantee the same rental that we are paying for these leases" under the long-term provisions of his contract.

Meanwhile, Lawton Shaw, supervisor of state purchases, said Gov. Griffin has not relaxed his ban on purchases by the Jekyll Island Authority.

Griffin ordered a halt to further state spending on the island "until further study" a month ago after The Constitution began publication of a series of articles on Jekyll.

The governor made $397,000 available for authority spending last February, some $208,000 of which has already been spent. The remainder is being held pending further action by Griffin.

WANTS NEW BIDS

In Dykes' letter, a copy of which he released in Atlanta, he asked the authority to re-advertise for bids on leases for the properties.

The Cochran political figure and paving contractor wrote the authority that he had been interested in leasing the Jekyll hotel properties as far back as 1949, before the present authority was created to administer the island. He reported he was second to the

Visit Georgia Farmers at School With Celestine Sibley This Sunday

Don't miss these features in the big Sunday Atlanta Journal-Constitution:

Today's Georgia farmer has to be a master of many trades. Important among his many accomplishments is knowing how to maintain complicated mechanical farming equipment. In Sunday's Atlanta Journal-Constitution, Atlanta Constitution Columnist Celestine Sibley tells how Abraham Baldwin College trains its agricultural students not only in the way of the soil, but also in the way of the machines that till the soil.

GLOVE COMPARTMENT INAPPLY NAMED . . . Why? Because you'll find most anything but gloves in a glove compartment. Explore a few local automobile glove compartments with Atlanta Constitution staff writer Don Baird.

BACK TO SCHOOL WOES are not restricted to children. Atlanta Journal staff writer Katherine Skogstad tells how Decatur City School Supt. O. L. Amsler handled the chore of administrative details necessary before school can begin on a full-time basis.

late Barney Whittaker of Augusta in the first bidding on the island leases.

"It seems in the past several weeks," Dykes wrote, "that some newspapers have made every effort to convince people of the state of Georgia that I have used political influence to secure leases on certain properties at Jekyll Island. They also have inferred that this property was not properly advertised in order that other Georgians could have the opportunity to bid on the concessions on which my firms were high bidders."

NO INSIDE TRACK

Then he added, "I honestly don't think you can find many people who believe the stories, but I for one want to be certain that no one can willfully say they believe

I got the benefit of an inside track. I would like for you to re-advertise these properties for the fourth time to the public . . ."

Dykes' hotel property leases call for a minimum annual rental guarantee of $15,000 with a sliding scale up to $50,000 in 32 years. He also has leased on the island a building and supply firm, insurance and real estate business and service station.

Dykes told newsmen that business on the island has been good and that the number of visitors is increasing. He said his purpose in writing the authority was to "get this thing settled."

"If they can make a better deal or even one just as good, I'll get out," Dykes said. "But if they can't I want to get down to the business of making a real resort out of the island."

Meany's Out To Change Dixie Ways

Urges 'Education' On Unions, Rights

FOREST PARK, Pa., Aug. 30 (AP)—A vast educational program to change the "whole mental attitude" of the South on labor unions and civil rights was proposed today by the AFL-CIO.

George Meany, president of the 15 million-member labor group, said the whole atmosphere and way of thinking of the South must be changed before Dixie workers can be organized by the AFL-CIO.

He said a staff committee has been set up to study the educational plan, which would employ radio, television and newspaper advertising.

"DIXIE MISGUIDED" — "Southern opposition to labor unions and civil rights for Negroes, is a misguided tradition out of step with the rest of the nation," Meany declared.

He cited the project as "a constructive educational approach that will be closely related to our organizing work."

The plan was outlined by Meany at a news conference at the close of a four-day meeting of the AFL-CIO 28-member Executive Council in this Pocono Mountain resort.

PRAISES UNIONS — Meany said, "We feel more and more people in the South are coming around to the liberal approach." The educational drive, he added, would emphasize that unions help to improve the lot of workers and by increasing purchasing power around to the liberal ap-build community life.

Union leaders announced that retiring Sen. Herbert Lehman (D-NY) would receive the AFL-CIO annual award for outstanding service. It will be presented to him next December.

The council also unanimously approved a compromise made by the Louisiana State Labor Council, an AFL-CIO state unit, in accepting limited repeal of a state right to work law for some 300,000 of its members. The law, which acts against union shop contract provisions was left in effect for sugar and rice processing workers in Louisiana.

Union Shop Hit by New Labor Group

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. Aug. 30 (AP)—A newly organized Southern union, dedicated to the preservation of segregation, today took steps opposing the union shop being sought by labor groups in Southern carriers.

Southern Crafts Inc., made its views known in a letter to all Southern carriers. The letter was signed by James E. Price, Birmingham, president of the union.

"This organization is very much concerned about the all-out drive by the other labor organizations to force a union shop upon all the employees throughout the United States," the letter said.

It referred to a recent Supreme Court decision which ruled that right to work laws which had been in effect in 17 states were not valid on the railroads.

The railroad brotherhoods are pressing for contract clauses to include the union shop among Southern carriers.

"Southern Crafts Inc., feels that when management signs a union shop agreement hand-cuffing their employees to their labor leaders, they are giving very little consideration, whatsoever, to their employees, not to mention the general public, for it would be a short and easy step to gain control over the economic system and the government itself," Price's letter declared.

He said the union "will use all its power and all legal and honorable means in resisting integration and the union shop."

"We ask the carriers to refrain from any agreements concerning the union shop," he said.

Plane Falters, Delays U.S. Trip By Shigemitsu

NEW YORK, Aug. 30 (AP)—Mamoru Shigemitsu, the Japanese foreign minister, made a delayed departure for San Francisco today.

The big United Air Lines plane in which he first took off returned to Idlewild Airport because of engine trouble. With only three of its four engines operating, it made a successful landing.

There were 53 passengers and a crew of five on board.

A substitute plane left four hours later.

Shigemitsu, en route home from conferences in Moscow and London told newsmen:

"Relations between the United States and Japan never will be shaken."

Nixon To Fly To Bedside of Father Today

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30 (AP)—Vice President Richard M. Nixon has decided to fly to the bedside of his critically ill father in California sometime tomorrow, his office here announced tonight.

Nixon has been vacationing at Manitokong, N. J.

Nixon decided on the trip west after talking by telephone with his family in Whittier, Calif. His father, 77-year-old Frank A. Nixon, is critically ill and Nixon had reports he had taken a turn for the worse. A physician said "A day or two is the most we can hope for."

Colorado Conference To Hear Tech Prof

Dr. W. T. Ziegler, research professor at Georgia Tech, will present a technical paper at the Cryogenic Engineering Conference at Boulder, Colo., Sept. 5-7. The paper was co-authored by Dr. Ziegler and H. Cheung, a graduate student. A new field, cryogenic engineering is the study and application of extremely low temperatures.

Algeria Clashes Kill 73 Rebels

ALGIERS, Algeria, Aug. 30 (UP)—French troops killed at least 73 rebels in two major clashes during the past 24 hours, a military spokesman said today. French losses were set at four killed and two wounded.

Flier Loses His Apartment, Zooms Into All-Girl Paradise

DENVER, Aug. 30 (AP)—Art Hare, who used to be an Air Force jet pilot, never had it so good.

It began Aug. 1 when Hare, a former Cornell football player from Chicago, lost the lease on a house he was renting just three weeks before he was due to be discharged from Lowry Air Force Base.

But Hare had girl friends who came to his rescue. They arranged for him to stay in a small room off the office of a girls-only apartment. The other tenants are 17 airline hostesses and seven models and secretaries.

They serve him breakfast, lunch and dinner, mix drinks for him and serenade him with song and

New Meat Spreads, Cake Mixes On the Market in Six Flavors

Good things are coming to market in sixes. There are six new meat sandwich spreads available in reusable glasses. And each glass makes six to eight good and easy sandwiches.

The flavors are liver with bacon; beef, dill and garlic; smoked ham; beef with barbecue flavor; pork and beef, and pickle, beef and pimento. Use them as they are or combine with pickles, mayonnaise, mustard, chopped egg or other standbys and stack on bread with cheese, lettuce and tomato or bacon.

Another newcomer is the one-step cake mix in six flavors. The key ingredient in the new formula is a unique shortening which literally explodes into tiny droplets throughout the mixture as it bakes.

The company has developed a new flour specifically designed for cake mix uses, a new fast-action baking powder and a new special cake mix sugar. The mixes are designed to result in a texture more like home-baked cakes than ever before.

The flavors are white, chocolate, yellow, orange, spice and caramel.

Food in Freezer; Lunch in Bag

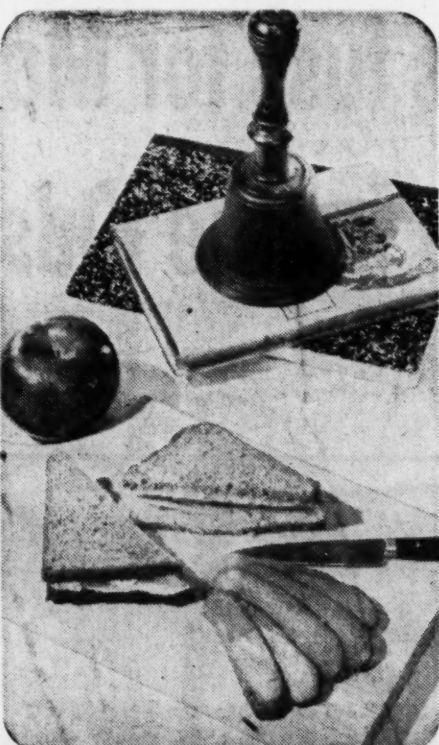

Food and goodies in the freezer is a lunch in the bag. And that's the order of every day when school begins.

Lunches packed from the freezer into the lunchbox in the morning will be ready to eat by noon. Or if you are having lunch at home, a quick meal can be prepared from the freezer.

A large variety of sandwich favorites can be prepared in quantity once or twice a month for packed lunches. All meat, fish, poultry, cheese, peanut butter and egg yolk fillings, made up into sandwiches, will store well in the freezer, but be sure to butter bread before adding fillings. Cooked egg whites, chopped very fine, can also be used.

Suggestions for sandwich fillings well suited to freezing are:

1. Peanut Butter Marmalade: 1/2 cup peanut butter, 1/2 cup grated sharp cheese, 2 tsp. lemon juice, 1/4 cup orange marmalade, 1 tsp. hot water.
2. Cream Cheese Olive Nut: Two 3-oz. pkgs. cream cheese, 3 tbsp. sliced stuffed olives, 3 tbsp. chopped nuts, 1/4 tsp. salt, 1/4 cup cream.
3. Frankfurter Pickle: 6 frankfurters ground or chopped fine, 1/2 cup pickle relish, 2 tsp. prepared mustard, 1/4 cup chili sauce.
4. Tuna Egg: 4 hard cooked egg yolks, 1/2 tsp. prepared mustard, 2 tsp. lemon juice, 1 cup tuna fish (7-oz. can grated) 1 tsp. grated onion, 1/2

1 tsp. salt, 1/4 tsp. celery salt, 1/4 cup salad dressing.

DESSERTS

Doughnuts, peanuts, popcorn, candy bars, marshmallows and peanut brittle always make welcome dessert treats, and are well suited to freezer storage. Fruits, too, are good for lunch box-meals. If you freeze your own fruit, pack some of it in waxed paper cups, cover with self-cover or freezer foil, and add to the menu.

WORTH WAKING FOR

New Breakfast Ideas In Early Fall Style

By JEANNE HIGGINS
Constitution Food Editor

Company breakfasts are going to be every-day stuff this fall. And that means that the first meal of the day will really be worth waking for.

About this time last year waffles came on the breakfast scene in new form. Slices of bread were buttered, battered and baked in the waffle iron, and came out waffled. Now they are even fancier, but still quick and easy.

French toast is also wearing a new face. It's scrambled and makes an interesting addition to the breakfast picture as well as saving time.

And all the new ideas are in time for the first days of school and for the month of September which is always celebrated as better-breakfast month.

Canned meats are also coming in with their bit for the sake of a good breakfast that's quick. Canned, corned beef hash may be topped with baked or poached eggs. Pork sausage, canned in link, bulk and patty styles, makes a fine team with plain or blueberry pancakes. And scrambled eggs are better with an addition of spicy deviled ham.

CINNAMON-NUT WAFFLES

- 8 to 10 slices bread
- Butter
- 1/2 cup milk
- Dash of salt
- 1 egg, slightly beaten
- Maple-blended syrup
- Cinnamon
- Sugar
- Chopped nuts

1. Spread bread slices lightly but evenly on both sides with butter. 2. Add milk and salt to slightly beaten egg. Blend well. 3. Dip slices of bread in egg-milk mixture quickly. Drain. 4. Just before baking, sprinkle cinnamon, sugar and chopped nuts over bread in waffle baker. 5. Bake in moderately hot waffle baker 5 minutes, or until golden brown. 6. Serve hot with maple-blended syrup. Makes 8 to 10 waffles.

SCRAMBLED FRENCH TOAST

- 8 slices stale bread
- 3 eggs, well beaten
- 1/2 tsp. salt
- 1/2 cup milk
- Bacon drippings or shortening
- Butter
- Maple-blended syrup
- 8 slices crisp cooked bacon (optional)

1. Cut bread into small cubes. (Do not remove crusts.) 2. Combine eggs, salt, and milk. 3. Pour over bread cubes and toss lightly. Add to hot fat in a large skillet and turn occasionally until well browned. 4. Serve with butter and maple-blended syrup. 5.

Also, if desired, serve with bacon or sprinkle crumbled cooked bacon over each serving. Makes 4 servings.

PARTY SCRAMBLED HAM N' EGGS

- 1 dozen eggs
- 1/2 cup milk
- 2 small cans (2 1/4 ounces each) deviled ham
- 1/2 tsp. salt
- 1/4 tsp. Tabasco
- 4 tbsps. (1/2 stick) butter
- Paprika

1. Break eggs into large mixing bowl. 2. Add milk, deviled ham, salt and Tabasco; beat with rotary beater until foamy. 3. Melt butter in chafing dish or large skillet; pour in egg mixture. 4. Cook over medium heat, stirring from bottom and sides as eggs become firm. 5. Continue until eggs are thick and creamy. 6. To serve, sprinkle with paprika. 6 servings.

Olive Sandwich Spread Summer Party Idea

Here's a smart idea for a summer party—3-in-1 olive sandwich spread.

You make a white sauce and live it up with ripe olives, celery, grated onion and lemon juice.

Then divide this into three parts, adding ground ham and mustard to one; cheese and pickle relish to the second, and tuna, salmon or crab to the third.

3-IN-1 OLIVE SANDWICH SPREAD

1½ cups ripe olives
3 large stalks celery
½ cup butter or margarine
½ cup sifted all-purpose flour
1½ tsp. salt
¼ tsp. pepper
2 cups milk
2 tsp. grated onion
2 tsp. lemon juice
½ cup ground ham
½ cup mustard
1 cup grated American cheese
½ cup sweet pickle relish
½ tsp. Worcestershire sauce

½ cup flaked tuna, salmon or crab
1 tsp. curry powder
1. Cut olives into medium-sized pieces. 2. Chop celery very fine. Melt butter, blend in flour, salt and pepper. 3. Add milk slowly, cooking and stirring until thickened and smooth, about 5 to 10 minutes. 4. Remove from heat and blend in onion, lemon juice, olives and celery. Divide mixture into 3 parts. 5. To one add the ham and mustard; to another cheese, pickle relish and Worcestershire sauce; and to the third the fish, and curry powder. 6. Use either hot or cold spread between lightly buttered or toasted bread slices, or French toast. 7. Be sure to refrigerate when not used. Makes about 1½ cups each variation.

White Sauce Trick

In making a white sauce, first melt butter or margarine, then stir in flour. If the liquid is to be added is cold, it may be stirred in all at one time; if it is hot, stir it in gradually.

MOLDED SALAD FEATURES PINEAPPLE AND CHEESE COMBINATION
Garnished With Pineapple Slices, Spiced Crabapples and Grapefruit Sections

Combine Pineapple Slices, Creamy Cheese for Treat

Golden pineapple and cheese have always been a popular combination either as a salad or dessert. In this recipe, cottage cheese, cream cheese, pineapple tidbits and crisp salted nuts provide the featured flavors in a molded salad which deserves the main role at a buffet supper or a party luncheon.

Here are the makings of pineapple-cheese buffet mold which is a tempting combination of popular favorites. A small amount of gelatin is included for a creamier, soft texture. Sharpen this smooth richness with a garnish of pineapple slices, spiced crabapples and grapefruit sections.

PINEAPPLE-CHEESE BUFFET MOLD

2 cups small-curd cottage cheese
1 (8-ounce) package cream cheese
1 envelope unflavored gelatin
¼ cup cold water
1½ cups drained pineapple tidbits
¼ cup chopped salted mixed nuts
¼ cup snipped chives (optional)
1 cup whipping cream
Salad greens
Pineapple slices
Spiced crabapples
Grapefruit sections

1. Mash cheeses together with fork until smooth. 2. Soften gelatin in cold water in a small measuring cup. 3. Set cup in hot water until gelatin melts. Stir into cheese. 4. Add pineapple, salted nuts and chives. Whip cream and fold into mixture. 5. Put in oiled 6-cup mold. Chill at least 4 to 6 hours. (This is a soft mixture and will not become hard like a regular gelatin mold). 6. Unmold on large salad plate and surround with salad greens and chilled fruits. Serves 8 generously.

DRESSING: If a dressing is desired, thin mayonnaise with a small amount of pineapple syrup or juice.

Orange Tarts Spark Menu For Party

If it's your turn to entertain the bridge club, and you need a new idea for dessert, here's a wonderful recipe for orange glazed peach tarts. You can bake the tart shells a day ahead, and fill them the day the girls are coming.

Sweet canned cling peach slices, ready to use as they come from the can, make short work of the finishing touches.

ORANGE GLAZED PEACH TARTS

½ cup syrup from canned cling peaches
2 tbs. sugar
1½ tsp. cornstarch
Dash salt
¼ tsp. grated orange rind
1 tsp. butter or margarine
1 (3-oz.) pkg. cream cheese
2 tbs. orange juice
6 baked 3½-in. tart shells
1½ cups drained canned cling peach slices
1. Heat syrup in small saucepan. 2. Blend sugar, cornstarch and salt thoroughly. 3. Stir into syrup and cook and stir until mixture thickens and is clear. 4. Remove from heat and blend in rind and butter. Cool. 5. Soften cream cheese with a fork and blend in orange juice. 6. Line bottom and sides of tart shells with cheese mixture. 7. Arrange peach slices on top. Spoon cornstarch mixture over peaches. Makes 6 tarts.

Lima Casserole Is Good for Sunday Picnics

If you've been eagerly awaiting summertime, when outdoor activity is at its peak and Sunday picnics are frequent, then this hearty lima frankfurter casserole is a welcome recipe to have at your fingertips. The wonderful combination of flavors from delicious large dry limas, cheese, seasonings, red ripe tomato slices and frankfurters is one the whole family will enjoy indoors or out.

LIMA FRANKFURTER CASSEROLE

1½ cups large dry limas
4 cups water
1 large onion
2 tbs. butter or margarine
1½ tbs. salt
1 tsp. mustard
½ tsp. sage
1 cup grated American cheese
6 frankfurters
6 slices tomato
1. Rinse limas, add water and boil two minutes. Cover and let stand one hour. 2. Chop onion and cook in butter until transparent. 3. Add to limas, with salt, mustard and sage. 4. Simmer one to 1½ hours, until tender. 5. Stir in cheese, and turn into shallow baking dish. 6. Top with frankfurters, and tuck tomato slices diagonally into limas between frankfurters. Sprinkle with parsley. 7. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) about 20 minutes, until tomatoes are cooked.

Quick Way With Frozen Chicken For Main Dish

Take a couple of cans of creamy, frozen chicken a la king from the freezer. Prepare glamorous Chicken Singapore this easy way, and serve to 6 lucky people: Cook 1 cup of diced celery and ½ cup of thinly sliced onion in ¼ cup of butter or margarine until just tender, but not brown.

Add 2 cans (10-ounce size) of frozen chicken a la king and 2 cups of bean sprouts; heat, stirring frequently. Meanwhile, heat chow mein noodles for a few minutes in a warm oven. Serve the chicken mixture over the hot noodles.

Open-Faced Sandwich With Extra Flavor

Wonderful open sandwich: spread fine-quality liverwurst over a slice of pumpernickel bread and top with crisply-cooked hot bacon. Serve with another slice of buttered bread spread with tomato slices and marinated onion rings.

Figure B shows how Colonial gives you a maximum number of choice center slices on both shank and butt purchases. Notice especially that the hock is removed and sold as such. On hams trimmed as in figure A, you pay shank prices for ham hock.

Quick Pineapple Sherbet

Frozen desserts have a special appeal for adults as well as children . . . probably due in part to nostalgia for our childhood days when ice cream made any day a party.

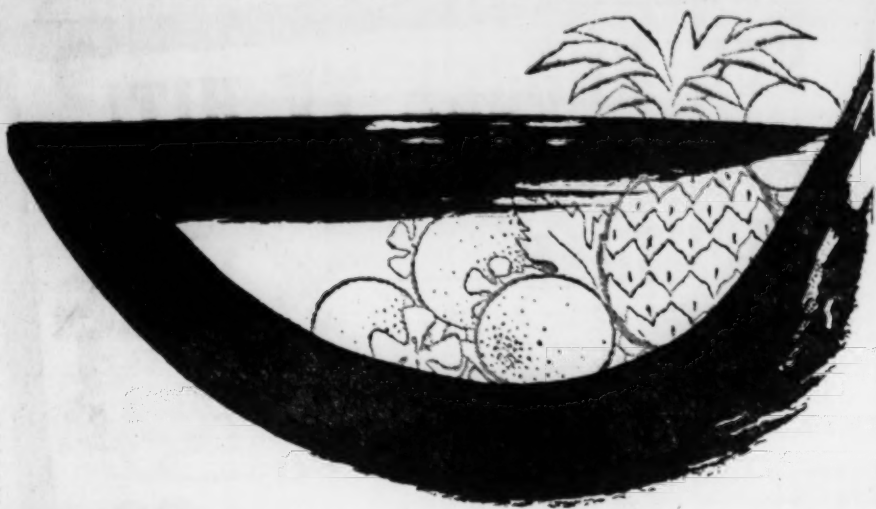

Here's a recipe that will provide you with a handy, delicious dessert throughout the summer. Mellow, smooth and creamy, Pineapple Milk Sherbet can be stored in the refrigerator or freezer and used in many dessert combinations. It's sure to become a favorite at your house.

QUICK PINEAPPLE MILK SHERBET

- 1 No. 2 can (2½ cups) crushed pineapple
- ½ cup sugar
- Dash of salt
- 1 tspn. grated lemon peel
- 2 tbsps. lemon juice
- 1 tspn. vanilla
- 2 cups rich milk

1. Drain pineapple. (There will be about 1½ cups fruit and 1 cup syrup.) 2. To the syrup add sugar, salt, lemon peel and juice, and vanilla; stir until sugar is dissolved. 3. Stir gradually into milk. 4. Freeze in refrigerator tray at coldest temperature until firm around edges and slushy in center. (Put mixing bowl and beater and drained pineapple to chill at same time.) 5. Turn sherbet into chilled bowl, break up with fork, then beat slowly with rotary beater or electric mixer just until fluffy. 6. Fold in drained pineapple, return to tray, and freeze until firm but not hard. 7. Turn to medium cold to ripen until serving time. 8. Makes 1 quart or 6 servings.

Whenever friends come calling, serve this delicious real-fruit punch. Five tropical fruit juices are the secret of its wonderful, tantalizing taste: orange, pineapple, guava, papaya and passionfruit. It used to take hours to make fruit punch, now you can buy Hawaiian Punch ready-made. Get a supply today at your grocer's and always have it on hand. It's so easy to serve the drink that everyone will enjoy . . . it's so easy to serve Hawaiian Punch.

MAYONNAISE

READ THESE FACTS

FACT 1

There's a difference in Mayonnaise . . . Federal law requires certain minimum standards before any product can be labeled Mayonnaise . . . but all mayonnaises are not the same!

FACT 2

The less egg content—the less oil content—the cheaper a mayonnaise . . . and the less nutritious—less flavorful it is!

The quality of the ingredients (salad oil, eggs and seasoning) makes the big difference in the quality of the mayonnaise.

DUKE'S home made mayonnaise far exceeds the legal requirements plus:

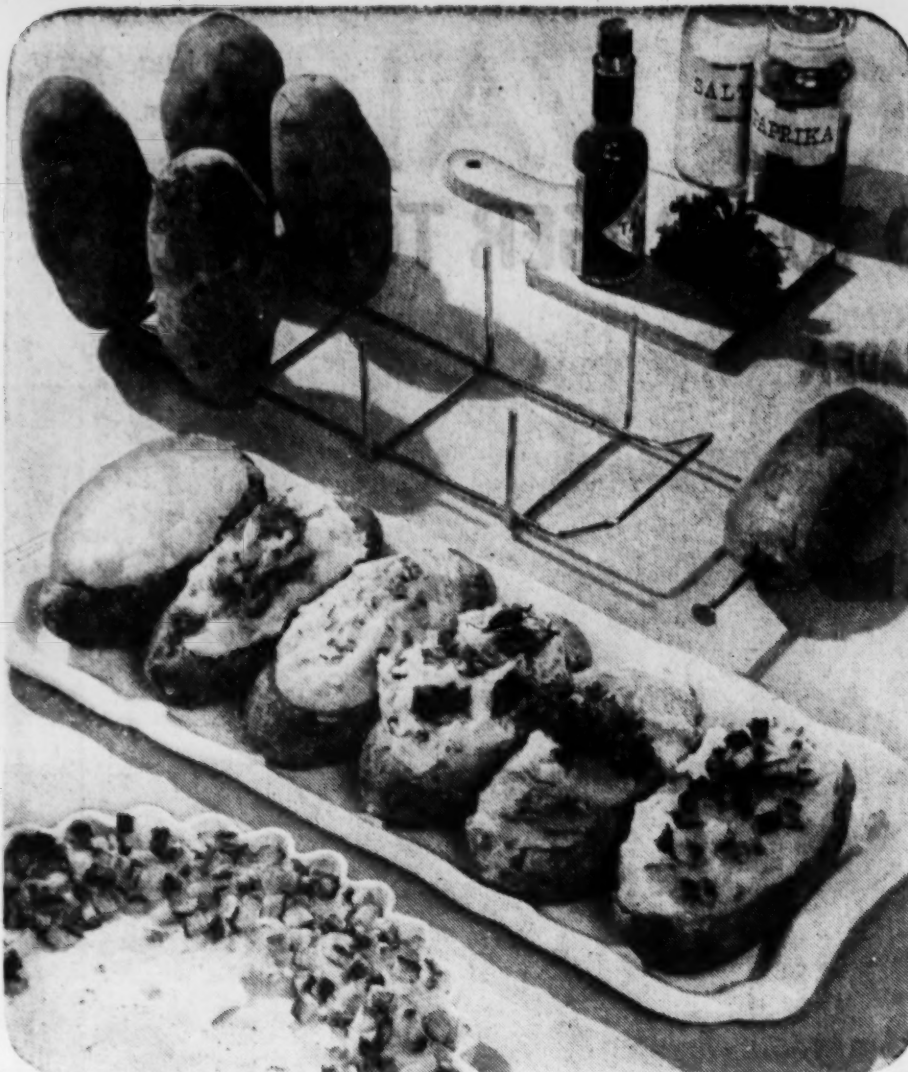

- ONLY egg yolks (no watery whites) go into DUKE'S!
- ONLY the purest salad oils go into DUKE'S (so pure they must exceed the rigid standards of scientific testing).
- ONLY SAUER'S famous quality spices and seasonings (known the world over for highest quality) go into DUKE'S.

DUKE'S is not the cheapest . . . but it is the best . . .
don't compromise on your mayonnaise!

THERE'S MORE THAN ONE WAY TO SHOW OFF A POTATO
A Variety of Toppings Add Interest to Potatoes Stuffed and Baked

Pep Up Potatoes With Variation; One Basic Recipe Lends Prominence

If you've been dimming your culinary light behind drab servings of potatoes with every meal, here's a chance to redeem yourself in the eyes of your family and friends.

Just remember two things and the first is that Tabasco will put pep in a potato just as it sparks up your other dishes.

Secondly, potatoes are delicious baked and mashed, and can be varied by other flavor additions.

You can hasten baking time by using a potato rack such as this one, which can be bought in most variety stores, or even by inserting a clean long nail in each potato. The metal conducts the heat through the potato for faster baking.

Long whites now in the markets are good to keep on hand for all your potato needs and you'll find their skin makes them perfect for this baked and stuffed recipe.

Here's a basic recipe and several excellent variations, which will give highly styled potatoes prominence on your table.

BAKED STUFFED POTATOES
6 medium baking potatoes
4 tbsps. butter or margarine
½ cup hot milk, approximately ½ tspn. Tabasco

1. Select potatoes as near the same size as possible, so that they will bake in the same time.
2. Scrub potatoes well; dry.
3. Bake in a hot oven, (450 degrees) about 1 hour.
4. As soon as heated, cut slice from top of each.
5. Scoop out centers, taking care not to break skin.
6. Mash or put potatoes through ricer.
7. Mash in butter.
8. Combine hot milk and Tabasco; add and beat until light and fluffy.
9. Add additional milk if necessary; season with salt.
10. Pile lightly into shells, rounding up slightly.
11. Dot with additional butter; sprinkle with paprika.

Bake in a hot oven, (425 degrees) 15 minutes, or until lightly browned. Makes 6 servings.

CHEESE POTATOES: Add ¾ cup grated American cheese to basic potato mixture; top each potato with 2 tablespoons grated cheese. Reheat.

DEVILED POTATOES: Add 2 cans (2½ ounces each) deviled ham to basic potato mixture.

CHICKEN 'N POTATOES: Add 1 cup diced cooked chicken or 1 can (6 ounces) chicken to basic potato mixture. Top each potato with 2 tablespoons buttered bread crumbs.

BEEF 'N POTATOES: Add 1 jar (2½ ounces) shredded beef, cut up, to basic potato mixture.

Tuna Scallop Uses Chips And Avocados

One of the best avocado entrees is this avocado tuna scallop, in which the avocado is heated slightly with a flavorful creamed tuna and potato-chip mixture. Heating the avocado brings out all its mellow, delicate flavor. If you've never eaten avocados slightly warmed, you'll find yourself using them more and more in hot entrees.

AVOCADO TUNA SCALLOP
Salt
1 cup condensed mushroom soup
1½ cups flaked tuna
Potato chips
Lemon wedges

1. Cut each avocado into halves lengthwise, remove seed and sprinkle with salt.
2. Combine soup and tuna, and heat thoroughly.
3. Place avocado halves in baking pan containing ¼-inch warm water.
4. Fill generously with tuna mixture and cover tops with crushed potato chips.
5. Bake 10 to 15 minutes in moderately slow oven (325 degrees).
6. Garnish with lemon wedges. Serve immediately. Serves 4.

Bowl of Fruits, Nuts Add Color

A basket or bowl of fruits and nuts, accented with sprigs of evergreen, adds a holidayish note to a fireside table.

Firm avocados (before they are table ready), cluster raisins, shiny red apples, almonds and walnuts in the shell and grapes make a most attractive display.

Soup Accompaniment

Lightly brown bite-size shredded rice biscuits in butter and sprinkle with a seasoning salt. Serve with soup.

Breakfast Treat in Cake, Meats

Hot cinnamon coffee cake and sizzling sausages, pan-fried Canadian-style bacon, and sauteed lamb kidneys will bring the family to the breakfast table without a second call.

Make quick bread with lard and you'll be sure of a delicately flavored treat that's tender, fine-grained, and feathery light. Lard can be used as effectively by the modern cook as it was by her grandmother. Its superior shortening power, high digestibility, excellent nutritive value, and thriftiness is the same today as it was 50 years ago.

You'll like this cinnamon coffee cake cold as well as fresh from the oven, so save some—if you can—to serve as luncheon dessert or a midday snack.

CINNAMON COFFEE CAKE

1½ cups sifted all-purpose flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon mace or nutmeg
½ cup sugar
½ cup lard
1 egg
¼ cup milk

Topping:
¼ cup sugar
2 tablespoons all-purpose flour
½ teaspoon cinnamon
1 teaspoon butter or margarine

1. Sift flour with baking powder, salt, mace and sugar. 2. Cut in lard as for pie crust. 3. Stir in egg blended with milk. Pour into greased 8-inch square pan. 4. For topping, blend butter with sugar, flour and cinnamon until crumbly. Sprinkle over batter. Bake 350 degrees 25 minutes. 9 servings.

The meat platter to accompany the cinnamon coffee cake at breakfast might offer a variety of meats. You might choose sliced ham, sliced smoked picnic, thin-cut beef steaks, ground beef patties, lamb chops or steaks, sliced canned luncheon meat, dried beef, corned beef hash, as well as the universally popular thin and thick-cut sliced bacon. All of these meats are ideal for breakfast service since they require little cooking—some only reheating—to ready them for the breakfast table.

MEAT PLATTER FOR BREAKFAST

Sizzling Pork Sausage Links: Place links in cold skillet. Do not prick the skins. Add three tablespoons water, cover skillet and cook about five minutes. Uncover and drain off any water. Cook links over low heat, turning often, until well browned on all sides. Drain off fat and serve immediately.

Pan-fried Canadian-style Bacon: Melt a tablespoon of bacon drippings, lard or other fat in a skillet and in it slowly cook ¼-inch-thick slices of Canadian-style bacon until lightly browned, turning to brown uniformly.

Sauteed Lamb Kidneys: Remove outer membrane from kidneys and split kidneys in half. Remove white veins and fat with scissors and cook gently in two to three tablespoons of bacon drippings 10 to 12 minutes, or until kidneys are well browned and thoroughly cooked—until no trace of pink remains.

Tempting Fresh Vegetable Dish

Now is the time to enjoy garden-fresh vegetables, and the clever cook serves them in a variety of tempting dishes.

If you've overlooked some of the delightful dishes that can be prepared from cucumbers and eggplant, your family is missing some real treats.

Baked cucumbers and stuffed eggplant are two tasty dishes that will perk up summer menus.

The Little Things Count in Cooking

It's the little things that count in cooking. Take this gem of an idea: To 1 can (10½ ounces) of frozen condensed clam chowder (New England style), add 1½ cups of milk and 1 cup of shredded mild process cheese. Heat, stirring frequently, until the soup is hot and the cheese is melted. Make 3 to 4 savory servings.

remove centers, and leave ¼ inch thick shells. 2. Dice centers; soak shells and centers in salted water (1 tablespoon to each pint of water) 15 to 30 minutes. 3. Melt shortening in skillet; mix diced eggplant and remaining ingredients, and heat thoroughly in melted shortening. Stuff shells. 4. Place in baking pan as deep as the stuffed shells, with ¼ to ½ cup water in bottom of pan. 5. Bake in preheated oven at 350 degrees for 1 hour.

For Outdoor Barbecues Try Fiesta Meat Sauce

When it comes to cooking outdoors on the grill, the man of the house usually takes over and barbecues with a flourish. For these chefs, here's a meat sauce—aromatic with spices, pungent with vinegar and tomato juice, and savory with onions, ripe olives and celery.

It's the kind of barbecue sauce men love to concoct, and it's just as good on spaghetti as on meat.

FIESTA MEAT SAUCE

1 cup chopped ripe olives
1 cup cooked prunes
1 cup finely chopped onion
2 cups finely chopped celery
1 teaspoon minced garlic
2 cups tomato juice
½ cup cider vinegar
½ cup brown sugar (packed)
½ cup olive or salad oil

2 tablespoons chili powder
2½ teaspoons salt
2 teaspoons dry mustard
1 teaspoon ginger
½ teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon black pepper
3 tablespoons lemon juice
1. Cut olives and prunes into small pieces. 2. Combine all ingredients and blend well. 3. Simmer about 30 minutes, stirring frequently. 4. Serve with meats.
Makes approximately 2½ pints.

Faith Puts Suicide Out Of the Mind

QUESTION: If suicide is an unpardonable sin, why do so few of you preachers preach against it?

—R. C. C.
 ANSWER: As far as I can determine, there is but one sin which is described beyond God's pardon and that is ascribing to Satan the work of God's Holy Spirit. Suicide is a terrible thing for it is self-destruction and the Bible tells us: "Thou shalt do no murder."

However, it would seem that the overwhelming majority of people who take their lives do so when they are not mentally responsible. In such matters we will be more than wise if we do not judge other people and leave them to a loving God who knows all of the circumstances.

Where people deliberately take their lives to avoid facing life's difficult problems and situations, they do not solve their problems and they go into the presence of God guilty of their own destruction. The Christian faith opens to all men a source of strength, guidance and comfort which makes the thought of suicide unthinkable to one in his or her normal mind.

God has promised those who will turn to Him in faith that He is sufficient for all of our needs. Regardless of the difficulties we
